German-Russian Deal Important to Europe Stock Boom Here Steel Boom, Also

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

The German government has officially recognized the Communist government of Russia. Germany drops her war indemnity claims, and the concessions extorted at Brest-Litovsk are cancelled. The two nations will now do business. German training of the Stinnes kind directing and exploiting the vast Russian resources.

The Kaiser and the Czar did not foresee this ending when they started fighting eight years ago, and the Kaiser promised "every moujik" to the good cause.

This agreement between Germany and Russia, the possibility of a great Eastern and Central European power, ought to make the Allies on the Western European strip thoughtful.

Germany is not allowed to have an army—but she has one, millions of trained men that could supply regiments and officers on ten minutes' notice.

She is not allowed to manufacture arms.

But Russia can do as she pleases, and does. She has an army, factories for making munitions. What will come out of that situation?

Once Germany was the steel wall of bayonets and cannon that stood between European western civilization and Russia and the East. Germany may now become the wide doorway leading from Russia into Western Europe. Germany does not want that, but it may be the outcome.

On our side of the ocean the interest is in what seems to be reviving business and a considerable stock speculation boom.

Yesterday, in an hour, more than half a million shares of stock were sold on the New York Exchange; more than two million shares in the five-hour session.

The various moneys of Europe went up a little, French exchange reaching its highest point in some years. Advancing Spring brings bonus.

Judge Gary, of the big steel company, biggest manufacturing concern in the world, says that conditions are getting better rapidly. He told his stockholders yesterday afternoon that the steel business had doubled in the past year. In spite of the strike, Judge Gary says, "we are receiving 117,000 tons of coal per week."

The best part of his talk was the statement that the steel company had abolished the seven-day week, and had cut the number of twelve-hour-a-day workers from 22 to 14 per cent.

Hiding your money is difficult, foolish business, but human beings are slow to understand and profit by simple, safe devices. Mr. Hanusyl, coming from Duluge, died on the steamship Potomac. Under his pillow was found a loaf of very stale bread, with $500 in bills stuffed in it. He had $257 in a jam jar, with jam to hide it, and more money in his shoes. Undoubtedly his worried, and that helped along his death.

All that trouble could have been avoided by taking a draft—some development of the bill of exchange that the Jews invented centuries ago to thwart the devout Christians that robbed them. The Jewish traveller, seized on the highway, carried nothing but a piece of paper, with writing in Hebrew. The Christian highwayman, more greedy than learned, little knew what that paper would be worth at the end of the journey in Venice, Cairo, Constantinople, any city.

In England wages are still 100 per cent. above the rate before the war. And compared with this country, there are very few men idle. In France and Germany there is practically nobody out of work. Here we have four or five millions. That is something to puzzle the proud patriot, with our dollar, the only good dollar on earth.

As interesting and surprising as Conan Doyle's pitiful descriptions of a spiritualists heaven are the replies and discussions of various clergymen. One reverend gentleman says there may be messages from the spirits—but very low, vulgar spirits. Others say undoubtedly such messages come, but they are the work of "devils seeking to deceive us." The entire discussion is worthy the highly-developed intellect of a South African witch doctor.

The German newspaper, Lokal-Anzeiger, asks on Easter day, "Do you believe in Germany's resurrection?"

The question is sent to the former crown prince, safely put away in Holland. He answers, of course, with a Hohenzollern bromide, the sort that convinced unfortunate Germans that they could beat the whole world, led by Hohenzollern jack-of-all-trades. World conquerors are specialists. They do not paint pictures dabble in science, tell women their duties, etc., in the Kaiser fashion. Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon did just one thing, which was—TO FIGHT.

The Lokal-Anzeiger, writing to

CHINATOWN MURDER MYSTERY

VICTIM OF SLAYING HAD BEEN ROBBED

Told College Authorities Last Fall Everything He Owned Had Been Stolen

New mystery was injected into the murder today of Donald S. Dunn, or Ung, young Chinese merchant and law student at Northeastern University, found with a weird knife imbedded to the hilt in his skull, in his bedroom in Chinatown, when it was revealed at the office of the college that he had recently been victim of a robbery which left him penniless.

The robbery occured shortly after Dunn entered college, last September.

"He came to us one day complained that he had been robbed of everything he possessed," said an official at the college. "The robbery occurred, Dunn said, in Chinatown. Thief or thieves had entered his room and taken everything he possessed."

It is believed by police that Dunn, whose Chinese name was Ung Sheding Jing, was the victim of a hatchet man, hired by a Chinese organization, either business or social, to slay him.

The murder following the mysterious robbery, indicated that Dunn was a marked man.

"Somebody was out to get him," was the laconic explanation of a police official of long experience in Chinatown, "and they got him. The robbery would indicate a warning

SINGER SUES FOR JILTING

Mme. Constantino Asks $150,000 of L. K. Marr, Penn Railroad Official

New York, April 18.—The executive offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad System burned with gossip today when the news spread that an action for $150,000 had been filed against Lewis K. Marr, assistant superintendent, by Mme Mimi Constantino, a concert singer.

Mme. Constantino, who lives in Boston, makes the assertion in legal papers that the railroad man alienated affection upon her during the last ten years of the life of his wife.

The singer says Marr, after telling her he was legally separated from his wife, promised to make Mme. Constantino his bride as soon as he could contract another union.

The singer charges that when Mrs. Marr died, in November, 1920, Marr refused to redeem his alleged promise to make her his wife.

CHARGES JILTING.

Mme. Constantino's complaint is divided into two "causes of action." Under the first, which relates to Marr's alleged jilting of the singer, she demands $100,000 damages.

Under the second, which is based on Mme. Constantino's claim that Marr agreed to pay her $200 a month for support, she asks judgment for $50,000.

Mme. Constantino says she had been living in Boston, twelve years ago, when she came to New York to broaden the scope of her church and concert work as a professional singer. She says she met Mr. Marr through her professional engagements and that he became so infatuated that he followed her about from engagement to engagement.

She declares he maintained her in luxurious apartments and at large hotels in New York city until the end of January, 1921, when she alleges the jilting occurred.

THOUGHT A SUPERMAN.

The singer says she divorced her husband about seventeen years ago in Fall River, and since then has been living with her two sons, Florbert, now twenty-two, and Ferreol, twenty years old.

Referring to Mr. Marr, Mme. Constantino says:

"I believed him to be a superman an honest, upright Christian, and have trusted him to this day."

The singer tells of many sojourns made by Mr. Marr at her country home at West Danville, Vt., near the place of her birth.

Many Homes Open to Babe Whose Mother Is in Prison

Syracuse, N. Y., April 18.—Women from all parts of the State are seeking to adopt Mildred Naomi Odell, infant daughter of Pearl Odell, the woman now serving a twenty-year term in Auburn prison for aiding her husband in the slaying of Edward Kneip in Rochester.

Warden Jennings said today that he was besieged with letters from women who want the child when it is taken from the mother in September. It is probable that the infant will be given to the mother of James Odell, who paid the penalty for his crime in the electric chair.

WOMAN AND 2 BABIES DIE IN FIRE

Mrs. Florence Helms, wife of a Boston salesman, and daughter of Charles Sherwood, general manager of the Boston Telegram, and her two children were burned to death today when fire swept the New York apartment house into which they had just moved.

Mrs. Helms, twenty-three years old, her son Harold, five years old, and her daughter Florence, three years old, live at No. 175 Homeway street until they moved to New York.

The baby, Florence, had just returned to New York from a visit to her grandparents at No. 40 Fen was.

Mrs. Helms and her children were spending the night in the recently finished apartment house in which she had moved a bed. The rest of the furniture was to have been moved in today.

The superintendent of the building knew nothing of their presence and had aroused the other four families. It was believed everyone had escaped until firemen found the three charred bodies in the ruins.

Mrs. Helms' husband, who travels for a Boston musical instrument firm, was away from home.

A Word of the tragedy reached Mr. Sherwood at his office at the same moment he received a letter from his little granddaughter Florence, thanking him for the good time she had enjoyed with him while on her visit here.

A charge of homicide was filed against Barnet Epstein, landlord of the apartment house in Washington Heights. The building, recently opened to tenants, was without electricity or gas.

Troops With Machine Guns Intervene in Religious Outbreak

Dublin, April 18.—Mutineers in County Kerry today arrested and imprisoned two Irish Republican army commandants.

Belfast, April 18.—A big battle has broken out north of the city.

Military forces armed with machine guns have intervened. Twenty have been wounded, according to word reaching here.

Religious differences are said to have caused the new outbreak.

Snipers were active in the Catholic section of Broadway and Antigua streets. An attempt was being made to keep the casualties secret.

The rioting increased in intensity toward nightfall.

Armed mobs were looting, burning and firing.

At least four additional persons were wounded in the Marrowbone, a Catholic section of the city, this afternoon.

Ulster military forces were making frantic efforts to suppress the violence.

15 Houses Burned in City of Belfast

By International News Service

London, April 18.—Belfast was recovering today from a night of terror, according to reports reaching here. During the night several persons received gunshot wounds. Fifteen houses were destroyed in incendiary fires.

Discord between rival factions in the Irish Republican army in Dublin was still smouldering. Hopes were expressed, however, that with the passing of a comparatively uneventful Easterside civil strife will be averted.

Truce conferences which will be renewed tomorrow are expected to be more successful than those which were broken off last week.

Mutineers were still holding several seized buildings while loyal Re-

The flight is a record, the quickest time that distance was flown before, being sixteen hours. The trip by train is sixty hours.

REFUSES TO CUT CLAIM AGAINST SEARLES

Judge Hammond in the Equity Sessions of the Suffolk Superior Court today refused to reduce the $2,000,000 damage suit sought by Miss Mary Johnson, of Rockport, in her breach of promise suit against Victor Albert Searles, artist, who recently inherited $6,000,000 from the late millionaire Edward F. Searles of Methuen.

Counsel for Searles sought to have the amount of the stipulated damage reduced to $50,000.

Trial of the suit is scheduled to start within another month.

Counsel for Miss Johnson at today's hearing were Attorneys James W. Sullivan of Lynn and John H. O'Neil of Peabody. Mr. Searles was represented by Attorney Winthrop Withington.

In moving for reduction of the damages the latter declared that no Massachusetts court had ever awarded more than $50,000 in cases of this kind. Under the circumstances, he said, the amount should be reduced and the $2,000,000 offered in bond on Searles' property also cut down.

Attorney Sullivan for the plaintiff said:

"Mr. Searles recently inherited $6,000,000. Had he married Miss Johnson and subsequently died the world have been entitled to a widow's share in the estate—$2,000,000. We believe that is a just damage to sue for."

In refusing to reduce the amount of the damages, however, Judge Hammond issued an order by which the trustees of young Searles' estate will not be held responsible for more than $250,000 in any verdict that may be given in the case.

The trustees are Arthur T. Walker of New York and the Old Colony Trust Company.

Bloomers, Corsets When Coeds Go Canoeing

East Lansing, Mich., April 18 (By International News Service).—Eudora H. Savage, Michigan Agricultural dean of women, yesterday at a meeting of coeds warned them against the temptations of Spring and suggested rules of conduct. Among them were "no canoeing after dark and while canoeing the wearing of bloomers and corsets."

SAYS MISS SEARS HAD HIM EJECTED

Cornelius Lucey, formerly employed as farm manager on a Harvard estate owned by Miss Clara Endicott Sears of No. 132 Beacon street, Back Bay, took the stand in Superior Court today at the hearing of the cross suits filed by Miss Sears against him, and by him against his former employer.

Miss Sears asks $5,000 for damages she alleges were done to the farmhouse occupied by Lucey. Lucey sues for $5,000, claiming that amount as damages for being ejected from the house by detectives in the employ of Miss Sears and for the balance due him on salary under his contract with Miss Sears.

Lucey testified that when he refused to leave Miss Sears' detective and other men with him smashed in the door so that it fell upon Mrs. Lucey, frightening and shocking her. The next day, Lucey said, the detective came back and ejected him, and removed all his belongings from the house.

GERMANY BROKE GENOA PLEDGE, ALLIES SAY

By International News Service.

Genoa, April 18.—Following an all-day conference, the allied representatives today made public a statement declaring Germany had violated the conditions she pledged to observe upon entering the conference.

The statement said the allies assume Germany, by its act in signing the treaty with the Russians, has barred herself from further participation in the Genoa conference.

It was learned from a member of the British delegation Lloyd George believes the conference can continue even if the French delegation bolts it.

"The Premier feels France's quitting would not mean the wrecking of the conference," this spokesman said.

Washington, April 18.—President Harding is of the opinion the Russo-German treaty is of no particular importance to the welfare of the United States, it was stated at the White House.

France Hints at Quitting Conference

Paris, April 18.—Germany's action in negotiating an economic treaty with Soviet Russia may result in France withdrawing from the Genoa conference. A cabinet meeting was called today by Premier Poincare to consider the matter.

"Pending a decision by the Cabinet, M. Barthou has been instructed to remain at Genoa, co-operate with the allies and report their attitude to Paris," an official of the foreign office declared.

"Germany's victory over England," was the way Humanite greeted the announcement. Other writers declare the economic treaty is a mask for several secret clauses.

Allies Draft Note to Russia-Germany

Paris, April 18 (By Associated Press).—A Havas dispatch from Genoa says the Allies are drafting a note to the Germans and Russians, notifying them it will be impossible for the Germans and Russians to continue to participate in the sessions of the Russian affairs commission of the conference if they persist in maintaining the Russo-German treaty.

Genoa, April 18 (By Associated Press).—Prime Minister Lloyd George said today the Russo-German pact was a step in the direction of dividing Europe into separate camps, the thing the conference wishes to avoid.

STANDING IN THEATRES WILL BE STOPPED

A campaign against overcrowding of theatres outside of Boston was started today by Colonel Albert P. Foote, Public Safety Commissioner.

The campaign was launched, as the result of a protest against alleged overcrowding in a Lowell theatre made by Representative Victor F. Jewett of that district.

The Representative said he had entered the theatre and found a number of persons standing. The owners claimed they were just preparing to leave.

"It makes no difference what they were doing," declared Colonel Foote. "Standing in theatres must stop. The law says all persons must remain seated or leave. I intend to have no excuses for theatre men in this matter. There is a great temptation on the part of some owners to sell more tickets than they have seats for. This is a menace to the public."

State police officers will enforce the law. The Commissioner has no jurisdiction over Boston theatres.

Mr. Tumulty, formerly Woodrow Wilson's private secretary, said the President authorized him to send a friendly, meaningless message to a big dinner. Cox, formerly candidate, was there, and no message of any kind could have made the slightest difference. Mr. Wilson repudiates the message. The explanation is probably simple. Mr. McAdoo, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, would not become a candidate last time. He was wise, and knew what was going to happen to the Democrats. He may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination next time. His father-in-law naturally doesn't want to indicate the faintest leaning toward any man outside of the family.

sideration of the Administration Tariff Bill on Thursday "without further delay." The measure will be called up at that time and it was announced the majority membership would make every effort to hold a quorum continuously.

DISCUSS FORM OF BONUS.

There was some discussion as to the form the bonus bill should take, but with divergent views developing no effort was made to reach a decision. This will be left to finance committee Republicans, a majority of whom are reported to favor the House bill with possible elimination or amendment of the land settlement option.

Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, is due to return here late tomorrow or early Thursday and will take charge of the tariff bill on the floor. He is anxious to get the bonus bill before the Senate and is expected to call the committee majority together to discuss the measure soon after his arrival.

Decision of the conference to press the tariff bill without delay is in line with the expressed desire of President Harding that this measure be put ahead of the bonus.

FARM BLOC TO MEET.

"With a long fight over the tariff in prospect, however, that bill, under announced plans of Senator McCumber, would be laid aside temporarily for Senate consideration of the bonus.

Senate Republicans of the agricultural bloc have been called to meet tomorrow to discuss rates in the tariff bill which are not quite as high as they had requested the finance committee majority to write.

FAIR WEATHER FOR HOLIDAY PROMISED

All indications point to fine weather for the holiday tomorrow, according to the Boston weather forecaster. Fair and much cooler, with sunny skies and a crisp wind, is the program. Towards evening there will be a decided drop in temperature.

WON GIRL AFTER 500 PROPOSALS

Persistency always wins—at least that is the firm belief of Royal A. Marshall of Malden, who won the hand of Miss Winifred S. Davidson of Malden after he had proposed marriage 500 times.

Miss Davidson kept the count—according to her story—and intended to say "No" on the 500th time, but, as she puts it, "Before I could give the customary answer Cupid asserted himself and I said 'Yes'."

According to Miss Davidson, she has been besieged many, many times before Marshall appeared, but she turned them aside. Then came Marshall.

"He told me he loved me at first sight," said Miss Davidson. "I told him I did not believe in such a thing, but I do now. He has paid me attention from the first time he saw me and has proved that he loves me."

The happy couple will lose no time in tying the wedding knot. The wedding is scheduled to take place at the home of the Rev. Henry H. Crane, pastor of the Centre Methodist Church, Malden, tonight.

PROSECUTOR BILL IS FOUGHT BY LOMASNEY

Representative Martin M. Lomasney today renewed his attack on the bill passed yesterday by the House, providing that only lawyers may seek the office of District Attorney, by filing a bill asking a Supreme Court ruling on the constitutionality of the measure. He filed a substitute bill for the one adopted providing that the only persons ineligible for District Attorney be those who have been removed from the office for misconduct.

MRS. WHITE IN TEARS AS SHE TESTIFIES

Breaks Down as She Tells How Clubman Repulsed Her as He Lay Ill

Mrs. Dora K. White, a sweet woman broke down and wept today in the Cambridge Probate Court while testifying in her separate support suit against Harry K. White, club man and retired broker.

Her breakdown came as she told of entering Mr. White's bed room in November 1920, he lay ill. Her daughter Harriet, was with her, she said.

"I leaned over him, told him I felt sorry he was ill and tried to kiss him. He would not let me."

The witness paused to control herself, but was unsuccessful, and tears flowed down her cheeks.

"Her husband's illness followed the day after Harvard-Princeton football game she said, after recovering her composure. Mr. White was displeased because she and her daughter Louise had invited a party of six to a before the game luncheon.

The day after her husband had repulsed her, Mrs. White said that her daughter Louise had been ordered from the house. She left the house herself the following day.

Mrs. White, small and daintily formed, was attired in a one-piece blue-braided serge dress of blue, a small sable neck piece, with brown bag and gloves. She wore a flowered toque.

WHITE REPORTED ILL.

Another development was the announcement that White, worth half a million, is reported seriously ill with vavular heart trouble in Jamaica. His housekeeper and nurse is Miss Catherine Fitch, forty-two years formerly of Pepperell. Her name has been linked with the White marital difficulties. Trial was halted April 4 to allow White an opportunity to come here to take the stand in his own defence.

During the cross-examination of Mrs. Louise White, daughter of the defendant, Attorney Walter I. Badger, asked:

"Do you know if your father is sick now? A.—No.

Q.—Don't you care enough about him to find out? A.—No.

Q.—You have no love for him? A.—Not now.

Q.—Did your mother ever say to Harriet, "Do as I say, never mind father?" A.—Never.

Q.—Can't your husband pay for the gas for the machine he runs? A.—No, he can't.

PROMISED TO AID.

It developed that Mr. White, the elder, had promised to give his son-in-law financial assistance for an indefinite period.

Mrs. White, the mother, in direct testimony declared she had noticed the attention her husband was paying to Miss Fitch, but had refrained from mentioning it to him. She said her daughter Harriet was much afraid of her father for years. She corroborated the previous testimony of her daughter Louise, that she, the mother, was supposed to be nothing more than a "visitor" in their Pepperell home.

She also declared her husband had instructed the servants not to take any orders from her.

PELLETIER TO WAIVE DEFENCE AT HEARING FOR HIS DISBARMENT

TO FOLLOW COAKLEY'S COURSE

Will Decline to Fight Charges on Grounds Hearing Would Be Unfair

By BERT FORD.

Joseph C. Pelletier, recently removed by the full Supreme Court as district attorney for Suffolk County, will not combat the Boston Bar Association's petition for his disbarment.

The Boston American is informed that Mr. Pelletier will follow the course adopted by Attorney Daniel H. Coakley and decline to offer any defense, on the ground that he does not feel, under the circumstances, that he could secure a fair and impartial hearing.

PROPHETIC FOR PELLETIER.

Spectators in Supreme Judicial Court felt keenly the note of tragedy when Attorney Coakley, failing in his motion for postponement to wait Legislative action on a bill to transfer disbarment cases from Supreme to Superior Court, abruptly declined to offer any defense to the disbarment charges and withdrew from the courtroom.

In the minds of all it marked the passing of "Dan" Coakley as a lawyer before the Massachusetts bar.

And it was accepted as a foreruner of what would befall "Joe" Pelletier.

FELT CARDS WERE "STACKED."

Mr. Coakley admitted it when, in more polished terms, he informed the court that he felt the cards were stacked against him. His plea fired himself as the remains in an official autopsy.

Mr. Pelletier's disbarment case is not likely to be reached for trial before next week.

Mr. Coakley said that without intending the slightest offence or disrespect, he felt that he could not expect a fair or impartial trial before a justice who was part of a tribunal which had passed upon the cases of Tufts and Pelletier in which his name had figured so prominently.

He referred to the fact that in his twenty-five years of practice as a lawyer, he had had 5,000 clients, and that not a single complaint had been made against him or anybody else, until Godfrey Cabot had accused him.

IDENTIFY "MISS PENNINGTON."

Justice Jenney said he considered the duty of presiding "as one of the most disagreeable tasks of my official life."

Identification of the mysterious "Miss Pennington" in the Stearns case, as Phyllis Allen, alleged member of the Boston blackmail ring, was to have been one of the major surprises sprung by counsel for the Boston Bar Association in the Coakley disbarment trial had not collapsed.

Miss Allen's former chauffeur was in court with other State witnesses, to prove that Miss Allen and "Miss Pennington," whom the defence at the Tufts trial termed a "myth," were one and the same person.

STEARNS CASE USED.

Identification of the young woman who "vamped" Captain Charles Ephraim Stearns, Harvard, '91, is a development of considerable interest in itself.

When Attorney Coakley announced that he would offer no defence, it became necessary for counsel for the Bar Association to select one of its charges in order to make out what they considered a case against Mr. Coakley. They decided to put in the transcript of evidence in the Stearns divorce case with Coakley's assent. The Stearns case figured prominently at the trial of Nathan A. Tufts, former district attorney of Middlesex County.

The evidence at the Tufts trial showed that Mrs. Helen W. Stearns, of Waltham, wife of Captain Stearns, consulted Tufts about divorce. A woman friend who attended the conference testified that Tufts told Mrs. Stearns that there was no evidence in the story and would be showed him to him, but that he would arrange matters.

DENIED SHE EXISTED.

Captain Stearns, son of Colonel Stearns of Waltham, in a deposition, told how a young woman known as "Miss Pennington" had made his acquaintance in the lobby of a hotel at Old Point Comfort, Va., where he was stationed in the quartermaster's corps; how they corresponded; how she pursued him to Cambridge and how they were caught in a raid of a Cambridge apartment during Class Day exercises at Harvard. It was charged that "Miss Pennington" was hired to manufacture divorce evidence.

Counsel for Tufts denied the existence of any such person as "Miss Pennington." Attorney Coakley, called as a witness at the Tufts trial, declared that "Miss Pennington" must be Miss Penn, a Waltham young woman who had formerly been employed by Captain Stearns as stenographer.

MYSTERY WOMAN OF STEARNS DIVORCE

"ANN PENNINGTON" IDENTIFIED

The mystery girl of the Stearns divorce case has been identified as Phyllis Allen, alleged member of the Boston blackmail ring. Coakley is charged with using her to trap Captain Stearns into a compromising situation for divorce evidence.

YOUNG STUDENT SLAIN IN CHINATOWN MYSTERY

which Dunn evidently did not heed. The killing followed."

Dunn was active in a radical young Chinese organization that had made many enemies in Chinese colonies throughout the United States. He had also precipitated a business war involving Providence Chinese and New York Orientals when he organized an import and export company recently.

At college he was popular and considered a brilliant student.

The killing is expected to precipitate a hatchet war and Chinatown today showed signs of preparing for it.

While a hatchet man suspected Dunn's slayer, police have hel'd Dunn's roommate, Ang Lock, on a charge of murder, and three other young Chinamen as material witnesses against him.

Lock was arraigned in Municipal Court and through an interpreter pleaded not guilty.

The hatchet man, said to be Sam Chesley, escaped.

KILLED WITH KNIFE.

The slaying was brutal. A curved-blade knife was plunged through Dunn's skull. He was found groaning and gasping on a blood-soaked bed with the handle of the knife sticking up weirdly, yet Chinamen with inscrutable faces pattered back and forth past the door of the death chamber with acute indifference.

Dunn died at City Hospital.

Lock and the three other young Chinamen held at the bedside by police in hopes Dunn might make a dying statement involving them, gazed indifferently as the young Chinese passed on.

The men held with Lock are Chin Hing, Wong Moo and Leon Wing. Their ages range from 21 to 30 years.

They deny any knowledge of the slaying and are mute as all Chinese when pressed for information of fellow countrymen.

BARRY ATTACKS POLICE.

In court they were represented by Attorney Edward J. Casey of the office of Edward P. Barry, former lieutenant-governor.

Attorney Barry, who is counsel for the Chinese Merchants Association, bitterly denounced the police in a statement given to the reporters for their alleged failure to allow Attorney Casey to confer with the Chinese at the Lagrange street station following Dunn's death at the hospital.

"The outrageous, sarcastic, unAmerican conduct of the police in refusing attorneys the right which the law provides to confer with a client under arrest," the statement read, "is one that deserves the severest condemnation and demands summary action on the part of the police commissioner."

He charged that the police conduct was in line with previous treatment of alien and Americanized Chinese.

Lock, who was found in the room with the slain man with the door locked, denies any part in the killing.

Through an interpreter he said: "Dunn was writing a letter when I went to bed last night. I awoke today to find him in a pool of blood groaning, the knife sticking from his head. I yelled 'Police and murder' at the window, but I never thought to unlock the door."

The knife, with a curiously curved blade such as pirates of old wielded and such as it is said hatchet men use in their slayings, was imbedded so deeply in Dunn's skull that a doctor at the hospital had to brace himself with one foot against a table and use his utmost energy to extract it.

Dunn was a Northeastern University law student, and a merchant. He was one of the aristocrats of Chinatown. With other young Chinese he occupied rooms in the Yok Quon Educational Association, of which he was president, at No. 145 Harrison avenue.

Recently he organized the American Chinese Exporting & Importing Company. His partner was another Chinese, Fred Forest Powers. Business was conducted from the association's house.

IMPORTED HATCHET MAN.

It was this business move that led to Dunn's murder, police believe. It at least precipitated a trade war involving rival companies in Providence and New York, resulting, it is believed, in Chesley, the hatchet man, being imported to put Dunn out of the way.

The slaying had all the horrible features that color a Chinese killing. Patrolman Harland E. Hall of the Lagrange street station, moving over his Chinatown beat, heard groans and cries in semi-Chinese-English as he passed the association rooms today.

Finding the door of the rooms locked Hall ran across the street, grabbed a sledge hammer from one of several workmen and broke in the door.

With revolver drawn he passed into the house. Inside he stopped and listened. Queer foot patterings moved ghostly upstairs above him. Groans came from the third floor.

He crept up to the second floor, stopped and pecked about. Pattering feet moved up ahead of him.

KNIFE IN SKULL.

From a front room on the third floor blood trickled in a tiny stream and groans and gasps were heard. Battering in this door, Hall found Dunn with a butcher knife protruding from his skull.

Standing above the bed gazing calmly down on the young Chinaman's death agonies was Lock. He was placed under arrest.

Hall then herded three more Chinamen into the room and held them with drawn gun until other policemen arrived from the Lagrange street station.

RADICAL LITERATURE.

Dunn was hurried to the City Hospital where he died within an hour. He made no statement and was unable to recognize any of the four men police stood about his bed.

A second investigation into the murder was started late today when [illegible] and J. Brickley, announced that he would perform an autopsy upon Dunn's body and conduct an investigation separate from the police.

BROTHERS SHOT BY MILITIA IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, April 18.—Governor Emery J. San Souci late today ordered Major Samuel L. Hall, commanding the militia in the Pawtuxet Valley, to make an immediate investigation into the shooting of two citizens at their home in the Crompton district by militiamen. The Governor further ordered Major Hall to fix responsibility for the shooting.

Providence, April 18.—Resentment pervaded the Crompton district today as militia officers investigated the shooting of two brothers, Pawl and Jacob Pankiewick by cavalrymen in the yard of their own home on New Valley street.

The foreign population of the district charge the shooting was ruthless and unjustified. Both brothers are seriously wounded at the Rhode Island Hospital. It is stated, however, that both will live.

The soldiers claim the brothers prompted the shooting by firing first. This charge is denied by the brothers and their comrades. Search of their home failed to reveal any weapons.

MILLS HEAVILY GUARDED.

Claims of the soldiers that the brothers were intoxicated also are denied by hospital authorities and two physicians who treated the men at their home. These physicians are Drs. D. S. Hardy and John A. Mack.

Sentries in the Crompton district were doubled today as a precautionary measure against any possible outbreak.

An extra guard also was thrown about the Crompton mill, where the feud between both textile strikers, worked.

The troopers went to the Pankiewicz house when a neighbor complained that the brothers were threatening him with a knife and wouldn't let him enter his own home.

Versions of what then ensued differ.

The troopers, who were commanded by Lieutenant J. Frank Kenney, claim the brothers rushed out and attacked them. They charge one of the brothers struck a soldier with a club. In self-defence, the lieutenant says, he then issued orders to his men to fire.

One volley was discharged, both brothers being hit. Paul went down, wounded in the stomach. His brother was wounded three times.

The other version is that the soldiers galloped into the yard and began shooting without warning. It is alleged they poured one volley through the kitchen door and then fired into the side of the house.

CHILDREN IN PERIL.

Other shots are said to have rattled through windows, imperilling two children playing on the floor in the path of the whistling bullets.

This version also states the brothers were peacefully seated on the front steps of their home when the soldiers appeared, and fled in order, amazed and frightened, when the troopers leaped to the ground with drawn weapons.

Immediately after the shooting a squad of policemen appeared on the scene and relieved the troopers in searching the house. The object of the search was not announced.

The militia investigations was conducted by Major Samuel L. Hall, commanding officer for the district.

EXECUTED MEN WORE GIFT PAJAMAS FROM U. S.

Scutari, Albania, April 18.—"Gift of the American People," read labels on the pajama-clad bodies of two notorious insurgents which hung from a tree in the centre of this city for several days. The incongruity of the labels evidently did not strike the Albanian authorities, as all the pajamas given out to the poor by American relief workers are so marked, and these garments evidently were the only ones available to clothe the condemned men.

WARNS NEW YORK OF SMALLPOX DANGER

New York, April 18.—Warning that New York was in danger of invasion by smallpox is given by Dr. Herman N. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health, in a statement commenting on the latest reports from Connecticut and Canada. In Connecticut more than 200 cases, most of them in Bridgeport, have appeared since the first of the year. Thirteen cases have been reported in this State since January 1.

ARMOUR AND CUDAHY BOTH DENY MERGER

Chicago, April 18.—Flat denial that an amalgamation of the Armour, Cudahy and Wilson Packing Companies is contemplated was made today by J. Ogden Armour and Edward Cudahy, presidents of their respective organizations. Thomas E. Wilson, head of Wilson & Company, was not in the city.

JUSTICE PIERCE LOSES POINT AT HEARING

The petitioners for the removal of Justice Edward P. Pierce from the Supreme Court bench scored today at the hearing before a special legislative committee at the State House when they succeeded in introducing the copy of a draft of the report of Charles S. Hill, master in a suit of the heirs of Edwin M. Wood against Attorney W. Edwin Ulmer.

Master Hill testified that after he had completed his draft report he met Judge Pierce and the latter said:

"You have enough in your report to send Ulmer to jail for life or crucify him."

The witness said he did not take the judge's remark seriously and did not believe he made it with any intention of trying to influence him in changing the report.

He said it was the only time Judge Pierce had spoken to him about the matter.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Mayberry he said there was nothing in the report that showed criminal action on Mr. Ulmer's part.

This draft, the petitioners claimed, showed discrepancies that did not appear in the report of Master Hill which was accepted by the Supreme Court. Counsel for Justice Pierce opposed the offering of the draft of Mr. Hill's report, but it was ruled to be competent evidence.

The petitioners and heirs of Mr. Wood allege that Justice Pierce influenced Master Hill to make certain changes in his report and on that account fought to make the original draft an exhibit, to support their contention.

DRAFT OF REPORT.

The draft of Master Hill's report showed he found Attorney Ulmer was virtually in control of both companies owned by the estate of the late Edward M. Wood; that an audit by the firm of Price & Waterhouse, showed the properties had steadily deteriorated and that the books showed shortages that could not be explained.

The copy of the draft further showed that $80,000 profits derived from the sale of prussiate of soda had mysteriously disappeared.

It showed that Attorney Ulmer had received $350 a month from each of the two companies whose heirs, Mary E. Hand, Blanche A. Leger and Henry Wood, were suing him.

WHAT REPORT SHOWED.

The report draft showed that $82,000 in cash and notes had come into the possession of Attorney Ulmer up to the time of the entry of litigation. It showed that none of the notes had been entered on the books as liabilities.

It showed that Master Hill found that Attorney Ulmer had intended to collect these notes.

It showed that no stockholders' meeting had been held from October, 1917, to the date of the suit; that all papers had been prepared by Attorney Ulmer and that in one or two instances papers in blank were signed.

KISSES WIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF

By Associated Press.

New York, April 18.—Mrs. Elsie Muller of Brooklyn was shot and dangerously wounded today by her husband, Frank, after he had kissed her good-bye in the 78th street subway station in Manhattan.

Muller then shot and killed himself.

The tragedy was witnessed by passengers alighting from a train which had just entered the station.

Muller and his wife had been living apart four years, and the woman had just rejected the husband's pleas for her to return to him.

When Mrs. Muller told her husband that it was no use going back with him, he kissed her and said, "well, you tell the police how it happened," according to the story she told the police. He then shot her.

Choir Girls Ready to Strike if Pastor Curtis Quits

STANDS BY BROOKLINE PASTOR

Mrs. Edith Thomas, one of the young women who say they will sing in choir only if the Rev. Edwin Curtis remains in charge of church.

Young Women Back Minister in Discussion That Has Stirred Church

Five girl members of the First Presbyterian Church choir, Brookline, have announced that they are solidly united in support of their pastor, the Rev. Edwin Curtis, and have declared that they will go on strike if he withdraws from the pulpit.

The Rev. Curtis was ordered removed by the Boston Presbytery for alleged flippancy, charges being made that he had baptised a dog and asked a blessing for a dish of potatoes.

His congregation, by a large vote, rejected the action of the Presbytery, however, and requested him to stay. Since that time it has been learned that he was offered a year's salary by certain persons if he would withdraw.

The girls of the choir, who declare that they will go on strike if the minister is obliged to withdraw, are Mrs. Edith Thomas, Miss Victoria Jamieson, Miss Anna McIver, Miss Lillian Carlyle and Miss Madeline Jamieson.

They assert that they will leave the choir unless the Rev. Curtis remains.

The minister is apparently determined to stay with the church, which has rallied to his support. He will not comment on the report that he was offered money to leave, and preached Easter sermons to large congregations without mentioning the controversy.

REALTY TRUST MANAGER HELD ON STOCK CHARGE

Springfield, April 18.—Contrand Cataldo, former manager of the National Realty Trust, sought by the police since February 20, on the charge of larceny from clients in business deals, was arraigned and a hearing was set for May 4 on his plea of not guilty. He surrendered himself to the police Saturday night. The warrant for his arrest was issued following a meeting of more than 100 persons who had bought stock of him. These clients alleged that promises of large returns had been made, but that the promises had not been lived up to.

3 BOYS MISSING ALL NIGHT IN STORM SAFE

Arrive Home Hungry and Water-Soaked, but Otherwise Unmarked

With a thrilling story of adventure on a storm-tossed sea, three Salem boys were home again today after facing death for hours in a wind-driven open dory and spending a night marooned on lonely Cunney Island, two and a half miles off the Salem shore.

The boys arrived home tired, hungry and water-soaked, but otherwise unmarked by their trying experience.

The youths, Mathew Skonicki of No. 23 Daniel court; Anthony Labska, No. 5 Daniel court, and Edward Kwiakski, No. 159 Derby street, vanished yesterday noon when they set out to cross the bay at Salem Willows.

They had been gone about an hour when a heavy rain and wind storm suddenly broke over the harbor and drove their frail craft toward the open sea. With their oars the imperilled youths struggled desperately, but vainly, to turn their boat about and regain the fast receding shores.

Their danger, veiled from those on shore by a torrential downpour of rain, the youths were swept into the open bay.

When they had almost abandoned hope of rescue they found themselves drifting close to the island, used in Summer time as a Y. M. C. A. camping ground, but deserted the rest of the year.

The boys managed to make the shore. Then began a long and anxious vigil while the marooned youths tried to attract attention to their plight.

Twice other craft passed the island, but in the roar of the storm the cries of the youths were lost.

The boys lighted a big fire under shelter of some trees, but the signal failed to bring rescue. Thus through the night the shipwrecked trio grouped shivering about the blaze hoping for aid and awaiting abatement of the storm.

Meantime a police boat scouted the waters of the harbor for the missing boys, but without finding trace of them. It was finally believed they had been swept out to sea and drowned.

With dawn the storm died down, however, and the boys again manned their little craft and rowed to the mainland.

NEGRO BANDITS IN 2 BANK ROBBERIES

Kansas City, Mo., April 18.—Two negroes with revolvers singled out a bank messenger on a crowded street car here today, forced him to get off and enter an automobile and robbed him of $11,000, including $4,000 cash.

Columbus, O., April 18.—Three armed negroes, one of them masked, today entered the Steelton branch of the Citizens' Trust & Savings Bank in South Parsons avenue and held up Cashier W. H. Todd, escaping with seven $5,000 and $6,000.

BIG NAVY MEN NOT TO ASK MORE REPAIR CASH

EDITOR TARRED AND FEATHERED BY THREE

Oakland, Cal., April 18.—Philip Riley, editor of the Free Press, a local weekly, was seized by three men late last night, taken into the hills and tarred and feathered.

FOUR SUSPECTS HELD IN POLICE ROUNDUP

Four more suspects were in the Roxbury and West Roxbury Courts today in connection with a long series of breaks in those districts which have been baffling the police.

This makes a total of six arrests since the police began a campaign to round up suspected members of the burglar gang. Other arrests are expected.

Charles E. Barley, of Hyde Park avenue, John J. Tierney, of Williams street, Jamaica Plain, and Walter Seufield, of Call street, were held in $1,000 each for the Grand Jury by Judge Perrins in West Roxbury Court. They pleaded not guilty to breaking into the store of John J. Mullowney, Call street, and stealing a revolver.

Robert Pelton, of Centre street, Jamaica Plain, was held in $2,000 for a hearing April 26 when he faced Judge Ahearn in Roxbury Court for breaking and entering the home of Mat Taylor of Intervale street, Roxbury. He also pleaded not guilty.

The police believe the present roundup will end a long chain of breaks that began the first of the year and in which the culprits obtained several hundred dollars worth of loot.

HOW TO USE LIGHT WIRES FOR RADIO

Plugging in an Ordinary Socket Described by Harold J. Power

Ordinary electric light wires may be substituted for aerial wires in radio receiving outfits by plugging in a wire on an electric light socket, according to statements made to Harold J. Power, vice-president and general manager of the American Radio and Research Corporation at Medford Hillside.

This can be done easily and safely, Mr. Power said, by placing a rubber disc as an insulator between the socket and plug.

Better results will be obtained when ordinary cheap crystal detector sets are plugged in on the lighting circuit, he continued, than when the audion detector sets are used. This is due to the fact that the heavy amplification will pick up a great deal of buzzing and humming from the 120-volt commercial lighting wires.

Mr. Power points out, in mentioning the ease with which the light wires may be made to serve for aerials, the dangers that will ensue if the insulation is faulty.

If a small disc of rubber, as an insulator, is placed in the electric light socket before the plug is screwed in, however, all danger of getting an electric shock through the receiving set is eliminated.

One expert has even devised a method whereby, using a two-way socket, light for the room may be obtained from one side, and radio waves from the other from the other.

It is impossible to receive radiophone concerts in this manner, Mr. Power remarked, in places where the electric lighting system is grounded.

A GOWN from Poiret in a manner peculiarly Poiretesque is of white crepe de Chine having its tunic lined with bright and dull silver brocade. By the way, is it a tunic or is it a train—or is it, perhaps, both? The raised waistline is girdled in silver ribbon.

AN abundance of jade green Georgette crepe is made into a graceful, draped dinner gown by Maison Georgette. It outdoes itself in the matter of sleeves—the panel of fabric that trims the front of the collar like a bertha continuing over the shoulder and upper arm and falling down at the neck, where it is bound about the wrist and finished with floor-deep streamers of matching ribbon. The low twisted girdle that drops a full panel over one hip and the pointed skirt drapery are interesting and of the mode.

Question Box for Radioites

Q.—I am making a variable condenser for a crystal set. The diagram calls for seven stationary and eight movable plates. Would 1-32 of an inch for the thickness of the plates make any difference instead of 1-20 of an inch? What space must I leave between each plate? Is 2 3-4 inches the right width?

A.—The larger the area of the plates the greater the capacity, and the smaller the distance between the plates the greater the capacity. The thickness of the plates makes practically no difference. The plates should be as near together as practical in the construction of the instrument, and not more than eighth of an inch anyway.

Q.—I have a radiotron tube which developed a hissing sound a few days ago after less than twenty hours of operation. My tuner and connections are all right. What can be the matter?—H. R. G., Beverly.

A.—Incorrect adjustment of filament or plate voltage. Possible deterioration of the vacuum due to running the tube at too high a voltage, the latter seldom happens so soon, however. Try varying the voltages of two batteries.

Q.—I have a 100-foot aerial in two wires about three feet apart on the roof of my house. I have a two-slide tuning coil, variable condenser, crystal detector and phone condenser and 2,000 ohm Murdock receivers. One night about a week ago I heard Medford, but very faintly. Since then I have heard nothing. I live very near the Dudley street terminal and imagine there must be a lot of current in the air. Is my hook-up wrong?—L. M. I., Roxbury.

A.—Fifty feet seems to be the effective length of your aerial, which is too short for good service. If you cannot string it to another building try running it diagonally across the roof. Before changing it, however, try another crystal in your detector, examine your ground, and try a variable condenser in series in your antenna circuit. If the trolley wires were interfering you would probably hear it in the phones.

ACT AT ONCE ON FREE RADIO SET OFFER

Boston has gone wild over the free radio sets offered by the Boston American.

Coming at the height of the radio craze the offer touched a sensitive spot and requests for information and subscription blanks have poured into the American office at an unprecedented rate.

Are you one of the lucky ones who are going to seize this opportunity to get a Victor radio set free?

GET IN RACE EARLY.

Although there are enough free sets for everybody who complies with the rules the sooner you start getting the twenty new subscribers the easier it will be. There are so many now going around among their friends and neighbors and getting them signed up for the six months' subscription that you may have some difficulty if you come into the race too late.

Fred E. Wright, dean of Boston theatre managers, is strong for radio and the Boston American free sets.

"The Boston American has opened the door of opportunity to those who up to now have felt they could not afford a set," he said.

Mr. Wright has been able to keep in touch with the theatrical world by means of the radio. The announcement of the coming of William Courtenay he received by wireless.

HAS BEEN FULLY TESTED.

Remember that the Boston American free set is not a cheap one. Professor Pearne, of the Chicago Technical Schools, made exhaustive tests of the "Victor" in comparison with other crystal detector sets, and pronounced it the peer of anything he had ever seen.

Collins are in charge of the arrangements and Mr. Morton is receiving contributions for the testimonial that will be given the Irish orator.

POLICE WOUNDED IN TRYING TO CAPTURE MAN

Titusville, Pa., April 18.—Attacked by a man believed to be mentally unbalanced, whom they were trying to capture, Chief Edwards and Patrolman Weatherbeat of the local police force are in the City Hospital with shotgun wounds. Their recovery is expected. The shooting occurred when Edwards and Weatherbeat called at the home of George S. Meelling, thirty years old, who is said to have been writing letters to President Harding asking that 300 soldiers be sent to Titusville. As the officers were entering the house Meelling, it is alleged, fired at them. He was captured later.

DO FILM FANS WANT TO SEE ARBUCKLE?

Will Boston film fans see the picture about to be released by "Fatty" Arbuckle, who recently was acquitted of the murder of Virginia Rappe, on local screens?

Local movie magnates say the answer depends upon the fans themselves.

Lynn is to see the round comedian of the silversheet, for the Mayor of that city has formally lifted the ban which barred Arbuckle and his comicalities from the movie theatres there.

Westfield will not see any more of the famous stout funny man, for Manager Edward P. McCarthy of the motion picture house there says he will refuse to play Arbuckle pictures, on the grounds that the people don't want them any more.

Here's the Boston situation:

"It depends on the Boston public if they want Arbuckle they shall have him—in this theatre at least," declared Manager Averill of the Franklin Park Theatre. "Fatty has been found not guilty."

"We are not going to show any Arbuckle pictures at the Park, the Modern or the Beacon Theatres," said Manager Jacob Lourie of those houses.

John Casey, official city censor, never issued any formal edict against local showings of Arbuckle films, and will not take cognizance of the situation until someone applies for a permit to show Arbuckle's pictures here. It was understood that Marcus Loew has New England rights.

Will H. Hays, director of the National Association of Picture Producers and Distributors, has been asked to prevent the showing of any Arbuckle films.

But what do local fans think about it?

Do you want to see the famous comedian? Or do you think his films should be barred?

Brother Pat Anxious Over Attempt on Mike's Life

Pat is Sergeant Patrick J. Collins of the South Chicago police station, and Mike is his brother, Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government.

The sergeant came to America in 1901. Six years ago he said he paid Mike's passage to America but the now famous Irish politician knocked one after he had gotten as far as the docks.

WEDDING SEQUEL TO BACK BAY RAID

The principals were Ralph Herdat and Cecilia Sassaman. They were arrested after a gay party had disturbed the neighbors for several hours. Six others, five men and two girls were arrested at the same time.

When arraigned in Roxbury Court yesterday Miss Sassaman told Judge Ahern of having come from Allentown, Pa., to become the bride of Herdat. She said her train was late and that she reached the city too late to file marriage intentions at City Hall.

Judge Ahern continued the case and told her to get her marriage license. She did so and the marriage took place today.

Portland, Me., April 18.—The transport Cantigny with U. S. troops returning from Coblenz was delayed reaching port today by thick fog. The ship was expected to dock four hours later than had been planned.

OFFICER FIRES AT AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

A volley of pistol shots and a chase through the Arborway balked two automobile thieves and saved a $2,000 automobile stolen from the private garage of Judge Frank Leverett, No. 358 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, and the machine belonging to James J. Harrington, No. 58 St. Rose street, Jamaica Plain.

The robbers broke open a window of the Harrington garage, opened the door from the inside and departed with the valuable car. This they took to South street and the Arborway, where they parked it in the shade of some bushes.

Then they went to the private garage of Judge Leverett, which they used a jimmy to break open the door. The judge's car was inside and they rolled this out to the street.

This was about 2:30 o'clock. Motorcycle Policeman Roy Farnum of the Jamaica Plain street station was on duty on Arborway near South street.

He shouted to them to halt and give an explanation, but they stepped on the gas and sped toward South street. Then they stopped the car and, leaping out, dove into the thick bushes nearby.

Farnum was close on their heels, ordering them to halt. As they fled toward the bushes he drew his pistol and began shooting, firing seven shots in all. The fleeing robbers made no attempt to return the fire, but kept on running and finally vanished in the gloom.

Farnum crawled into the car and started for the station. On his way he passed another car. Taking its number, he went on to the station, turned over the Leverett car and went back after the other machine. This proved to belong to Harrington.

It was announced today. Espejo was to use blunt darts dipped in glue so they would merely stick to the bull's side instead of piercing it, but the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals objected to the exhibition in any form.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Brilliant Gathering to Mark Military Ball Tonight

By BETTY ALDEN.

MILITARY, official and social circles will be notably represented tonight at the grand military ball being held by the Associated Veterans Societies of New England at the South Armory.

Practically the entire smart set has answered the patronesses "roll call," with the result that Boston's first family contingent is expected to make a brilliant showing. One notes, by the way, that despite the fact that this is peace time, Boston society folks have sponsored, with no lack of zeal, the many important military balls given in the Hub during the past Winter.

Dr. Lloyd Vernon Briggs of Beacon street, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, has announced that several other features have been arranged for tonight in addition to the overseas canteen, which will occupy one corner of the ball. One of these will be the presence of the official doughnut and coffee wagon of the Salvation Army.

The ball heralds the official "presentation" of the Associated Veterans Societies of New England, which includes more than a dozen different veteran organizations—the proceeds of the dance to help build a common home for the several units co-operating.

Among the patronesses are Mesdames Freeman Allen, Orie Bates, Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., Allen Curtis, Nathaniel Emmons, Allen Forbes, Francis C. Higginson, William R. Emmons, Everett Morse, Alfred Winsor, Augustus P. Loring, Fiske Warren, Charles G. Mixter, J. Harleston Parker, Dudley L. Pickman, Morton Prince, Philip S. Sears, Rodman P. Snelling, Nathaniel Thayer, Albert Thorndike, Richard Wheatland, Frederick S. Whitwell, Moses Williams, Jr., S. Huntington Wolcott, Charles P. Greenough, 2d, Wolcott Howe Johnson, George H. Lyman, Ronald T. Lyman, William H. Slocum, J. Malcolm Forbes and the Misses Cornelia Bowditch, Eleanor Bobier and Dorothy Forbes.

Faint and well-bred though they were—there were unmistakable murmurs of admiration as Eleanor Abbott walked down the aisle of Trinity Church yesterday afternoon. There was also a perceptible turning of heads when, a few minutes later, the bride came up the aisle upon the arm of her young husband, Francis Bacon Lothrop.

The young couple made a strikingly handsome pair, both being tall and of stately build. The bride wore satin, trimmed with white spangly things, and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. Her veil, which hung in many folds, was of tulle, and the train was of white lace.

The bridal group presented a charming picture. Katherine Abbott, who acted as maid of honor for her sister, wore a soft gown of pink organdie; Miss Ellen Curtis and Katherine Lane had gowns of yellow organdie; Marion Vaillant and Mabel de Forest wore orchid over pink, while Mrs. S. K. Lothrop and Marion Emmons wore blue over pink. Each girl wore a quaint poque bonnet of leghorn, trimmed with bright flowers, and each carried a bouquet of snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Gordon Abbott of Beacon street and the North Shore. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nelson Poe Cary of St. John's Church, Beverly Farms, who was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Mann of Trinity Church. During the marriage service a choir sung and at the close Bishop Lawrence bestowed his blessing upon the couple.

The altar was very effectively decorated with huge cases of gladioli and calla lilies, and the large candelabra, which stood at each side of the altar, sent forth soft, shadowy lights.

The ceremonial was not only a beautiful one, but it was exceedingly smart, so far as the wedding guests were concerned, which was only natural, considering the quantity and quality of the Abbott and Lothrop connections.

"Among those present" were Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, Jr. (Augustine Van Wickle), wearing a rather striking hat of blue with large bows of the same color; Mrs. James Means, in black; Miss Agnes Means, wearing a gray dress and black mallne hat; Mrs. Francis Parkman (Eleanor Bremer), who made a most attractive picture in a navy blue cape with plumed hat to match; Miss Rose Russell Johnson, wearing a rose-colored hat with two sweeping plumes; Miss Anne Coolidge, gowned in pink with a soft gray and rubbing it in briskly as before.

You can easily tell when the hair is perfectly clean, for it will be soft and silky in the water.

Rinse the Hair Thoroughly

THIS is very important. After the final washing the hair and scalp should be rinsed in at least two changes of good warm water and followed with a rinsing in cold water.

After a Mulsified shampoo you will find the hair will dry quickly and evenly and have the appearance of being much thicker and heavier than it is.

If you want to always be remembered for your beautiful, well-kept hair, make it a rule to set a certain day each week for a Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo. This regular weekly shampooing will keep the scalp and the hair free and silky, bright, fresh-looking and fluffy, wavy and easy to manage—and it will be noticed and admired by everyone.

You can get Mulsified at any drug store or toilet goods counter, anywhere in the world. A 4-ounce bottle lasts for months.

SEE BOSTON AS MERE SPECK ON MAP

The city of Boston is a mere speck on the map of the United States, and its harbor a dent in the Atlantic coast line, to millions of people in the United States and Canada, west of Buffalo and Toronto, according to Charles C. Daley of the Cunard line. Mr. Daley has just returned from a visit to the principal cities of Canada and the Middle West, where he has been trying to interest travel agencies and shippers of freight in Boston as a port.

"Everywhere I met with energetic, competent and untiring effort on the part of Canadian rail and steamship lines and Canadian ports to induce travelers to go abroad via Montreal and Quebec. Nowhere could I find that any effort was being made, except my own, to acquaint travelers or shippers of freight with the splendid port facilities of Boston, nor to advertise its commercial importance, its interesting sights and its historic shrines.

"The great masses of people out there have a totally erroneous impression of Boston. They have no idea—or, at best, a very vague and impressionistic idea—of the size, wealth, beauties or economic importance of the city and port. And it does not seem that any successful effort has ever been made to carry the message to them.

"Mayor Curley's newly organized publicity bureau, I believe, has made some plans along constructive lines to advertise the city and port. The need for such publicity is pressing. The field is unlimited."

Miss Bourne Leaves $300,000 for Poor of New York

New Bedford, April 18.—The will of Miss Emily Howland Bourne, filed for probate today, bequeaths $300,000 to the New York Association for the Improvement of the Poor. The estate is valued at $1,000,000. Miss Bourne died recently in New York.

Numerous bequests are also made to public and charitable institutions in this city, including the Bourne Whaling Museum. The largest personal bequest is made to Emily Bourne Michler, a niece, who receives $250,000 and the residuary estate.

PICKED ROBERTS TO OFFER A DRINK

Out of the million-odd gentlemen whom Paul L. McLaughlin of No. 21 Standish street, Cambridge, might have asked to take a drink, there by other rendering them unconscious with surprise or gladdening their hearts, he picked out James P. Roberts, head of the Federal dry sleuths in Boston.

Roberts was walking along Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, when a gentleman accosted him with the pleasant greeting of "Have a drink, old chappie. 'S good stuff."

"He presented me with a half-pint," said Roberts at hearing before United States Commissioner Hayes. "And I took a swig. It was spirits alcohol. Very impolitely I put the stuff on my own hip, told the gentleman who I was and then had him arrested.

In Federal Court Commissioner Hayes discharged McLaughlin, who admitted to the incident, at the request of Roberts, who said he believed McLaughlin had suffered enough by being locked up overnight in a Cambridge police station for lack of bail.

7 DRIVEN OUT BY BLAZE IN ROXBURY

Seven persons fled to the street today in a fire of undetermined origin in the three-story dwelling house at No. 4 Pine Grove Terrace, Roxbury. Damage is estimated at $1,000.

Those driven to the street were Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Frisco and two small children, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Marino and infant.

Mr. Frisco on the first floor was awakened by smoke. He finally traced it to the top floor, occupied by Fred Roth, where he found the fire raging in the kitchen and pantry. Awakening the Marino family on the second floor, he rushed to his own apartment and got his family safely out.

Mr. Roth, in whose apartment the fire was discovered, has not been occupying it for some time, and his wife is ill in a hospital. He is living on Heath street, a short distance away. The dwelling is owned by William Jacobs of No. 107 Heath street, Roxbury.

75% OF HOUSEWIVES SOAK EVERYDAY CLOTHES

What does soaking mean to you? Three out of every four housewives always loosen the dirt by letting the clothes soak before they start washing.

With the ordinary soaps, this helped a little, but there was still a lot of rubbing to be done. Rinso, an entirely new kind of a soap, loosens and dissolves every bit of dirt, without the slightest injury to the clothes. Soak your clothes an hour or more in Rinso and the dirt rinses right out, all but the most stubborn places and those need only a light rubbing.

Rinso is the only soap you need for the entire regular family wash. You don't need any other soap—nor any washing powder with Rinso. Women who are using it say their clothes are spotless and last longer.—Advertisement.

Making Your Hair Improve Your Looks

How to Have Beautiful Hair—and Make Yourself More Attractive

EVERYWHERE you go your hair is noticed most critically.

People judge you by its appearance.

It tells the world what you are.

If you wear your hair becomingly and have it beautifully clean and well-kept, it adds more than anything else to your attractiveness and charm.

Beautiful hair is not a matter of luck, it is simply a matter of care.

Study your hair, take a hand mirror and look at the front, the sides and the back. Try doing it up in various ways. See just how it looks best.

A slight change in the way you dress your hair, or in the way you care for it, makes all the difference to the world in its appearance.

In caring for the hair shampooing is always the most important thing.

It is the shampooing which brings out the real life and lustre, natural wave and color, and makes your hair soft, fresh and luxuriant.

When your hair is dry, dull and heavy, lifeless, stiff and gummy, and the strands cling together, and it feels harsh and disagreeable to the touch, it is because your hair has not been shampooed properly.

When your hair has been shampooed properly and is thoroughly clean, it will be glossy, smooth and bright, delightfully fresh-looking, soft and silky.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product cannot possibly injure, and it does not dry the scalp or make the hair brittle, no matter how often you use it.

If you want to see how really beautiful you can make your hair look, just follow this simple method:

A Simple, Easy Method

FIRST, put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water. Then wet the hair and scalp with clear warm water. Pour the Mulsified evenly over the hair and rub it thoroughly all over the scalp and throughout the entire length down to the ends of the hair.

Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather. This should be rubbed in thoroughly and briskly with the finger tips, so as to loosen the dandruff and small particles of dust and dirt that stick to the scalp.

After rubbing in the rich, creamy Mulsified lather, rinse the hair and scalp thoroughly—always using clear, fresh, warm water.

Then use another application of Mulsified, again working up a lather and rubbing it in briskly as before.

Begin by studying your profile. If you have a short nose, do not part your hair on the top of your head; if you have a round, fat face do not fluff your hair out too much at the sides; if your face is very thin and long, then you should fluff your hair out at the sides. The woman with the full face and double chin should wear her hair high. All these and other individual features must be taken into consideration in selecting the proper hair-dress. Above all, simplicity should prevail. You are always most attractive when your hair looks unmistakably—when it looks most like you.

Sonora Takes The Lead In Price Reductions

With the substantial reduction of price which went into effect April 1st on many Sonora models regardless of astonishing improved tone quality, Sonora becomes the first of the leading phonograph manufacturers to bring down prices to present-day levels.

This reduction of prices—the second which Sonora has announced within the last few months—is significant of Sonora's stability, financial strength and far-sightedness in serving the public.

Gentlemen:

We have been advertising in your paper for some two years, and find it the best newspaper medium for our business in Boston.

At the time we started, I will confess we were a little doubtful of the advertising advantages of your paper.

This Spring our advertising will start in April, 50 per cent. of it will be found in the columns of the Boston American, the other 50 per cent. being scattered among the other Boston newspapers.

Not only in Massachusetts, but from New Hampshire and Maine, have the buying public, readers of your columns, listened to our call. Last December our business increased over the preceding December 72% while the dull month of February showed us a gain of 53% despite the fact that the last twelve months have been exceedingly dull in the clothing business all over the country.

We feel that the Boston American is the best and most effective advertising medium published in this city.

Mothers in a Like Situation Should Read This Letter from Mrs. Enrico

Chicago, Illinois.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious trouble. I had tried doctors and all said the same—an operation. Affter I only felt the pain on my left side, but later it seemed to feel it on both sides. I am a power sewing machine operator and have a little girl to no-port. I work in a tailor shop and the line of work has been very slack this year and I am home part of the time. So I do not like to take any chances, so I consulted my friends, and one lady said, 'Take Lydia Pinkham's medicine,' so I did. I have felt better right along and am in good condition health to go to work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash to all."—Mrs. MARY ENRICO, 459 N. Carpenter St., Chicago.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By ALFRED STEPHEN BRYAN

What to Wear and How to Wear It.

Copyright, 1922, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Cutaway Sack

New York, April 18.—A popular misbelief reminds one drolly of a cat. Drown it, shoot it, bang it, quarter it, yet it bobs up, me-owing.

It is a popular misbelief that fashion prescribes the number of buttons upon a man's coat. Fashion does nothing of the sort. This season your coat may be one-button, two-button, three-button or four-button. It is an affair of preference, not propriety.

True, the four-button garment with high, blunt lapels commends itself especially to collegians and the legion who take their cue from them. However the two-button coat is just as smart, if it looks well on you.

Portrayed in the accompanying sketch is what is often termed the gutaway sack, because it is a sack coat which simulates the lines of a cutaway in its sharply deflected forepart.

This two-button coat is slightly flexed to the figure. It has a low collar-notch, broad lapels curved like a scimitar and a change pocket. The waistcoat is exposed above the coat opening.

The accompanying linen collar is higher in back, sloping low in front. The cravat takes the narrow knot. The felt hat is particularly smart and poised at precisely the right angle.

The Well-Gloved Hand

What a teacup is to a woman, gloves are to man. Even if he doesn't wear them, carrying them gives him something to do with his hands. Gloves for all occasions are not seen in this country to anything like the extent they should be. We wear gloves cheerfully enough for protection, whilst we should also wear them for decoration—as the finishing touch of the Compleat Gentleman, with day dress or evening dress.

The capeskin glove of Craven tan is a fashion which is always on hand. Then, there is the mocha glove (light-weight and pique-seam) in putty and beaver shades, as well as the crushable chamois glove which is by way of being more widely revived.

What is known as the pull-on glove, that is, the buttonless affair, shown alongside, is a type which, introduced by sportsmen, has also been befriended for street dress. This glove is permitted to crease softly and smartly over the wrist.

It is a common fault to wear gloves which are too small and, therefore, too tight. These cramp the fingers and are prone to rip, quickly. The loose-fitting glove is not only the most comfortable, but most fashionable. If you have any difficulty about your gloves, simply try the next larger size.

NOTE—Questions concerning Correct Dress for Men will be answered by Alfred Stephen Bryan, if addressed to him in care of this newspaper. To insure a reply, a stamped envelope must be enclosed.

UNION BUILDING MEN SPURN CUT

Pitchburg, April 18.—Members of the local Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union voted at a mass meeting to reject the proposed wage cut of seven and one-half cents an hour urged by the contractors and builders, and to demand instead an increase to $1 an hour in place of the 92½ cents they are now getting.

Leaders of the union declared there is a shortage of bricklayers, masons and plasterers, many of the local men having gone to New York where they are said to be getting from $1.50 to $4 a day more than the local rate of wages.

George P. Thornton of Chicago, vice-president of the union, has wired local labor leaders assurance the national body would stand behind their demand for a wage increase.

GOING BLIND, WALKS TO SEE PRESIDENT FIRST

HEALTH BOARD OFFICIALS ARE ACCUSED

Charging that Boston Health Board officials are "cover-ing up" charges against butchers accused of selling unstamped and tuberculous meat to the public, George McCaffrey, former Board of Health officer, took the stand in the Municipal Court today when the case against Abraham Kurland, wholesale and retail butcher at No. 156 Blackstone street, came up for trial before Judge Wentworth.

The butcher was found guilty on both charges and fined $200 on the tuberculin and $100 on the other charge.

Mr. McCaffrey declared that two weeks before the present charges were filed against the butcher he had found tuberculous meat in the Kurland establishment and had warned Mr. Kurland.

"When a man like this defendant comes into court, after fourteen years' experience as a butcher, and admits his guilt but pleads that the tainted meat, and the unstamped meat was purchased by him in 'good faith' it is high time that sympathy ceased," Mr. McCaffrey declared.

"What do you mean by sympathy?" demanded Judge Wentworth.

"That first case, in which I caught Mr. Kurland with tainted meat in his place of business is being played politics with," replied McCaffrey.

"Oh, Mr. McCaffrey has been discharged from the Board of Health service and he's 'sore,'" said the attorney for the butcher.

"Yes," Mr. McCaffrey replied. "I've been discharged for doing my duty."

Later to newspaper men who questioned him regarding his assertion, Mr. McCaffrey said:

"I meant the present head of the Board of Health, Dr. Francis X. Mahoney. Furthermore I stand ready to back up and substantiate all my statements in court. I would welcome an investigation."

50 DEATH TOLL OF STORM OVER MIDDLE WEST

Damage to Property Expected to Mount Into Millions; Floods Follow Rains

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 18.—Sweeping northeastward through the Middle Western States, a storm, which had its origin in the Rocky Mountain region Sunday, had passed over Ohio today leaving in its wake death and much destruction.

A loss of nearly fifty lives was attributed to the disturbance which developed considerable energy as it progressed over Illinois and Indiana, taking in many places the form of tornadoes. Damage to property will mount into millions, it is believed.

Indiana apparently felt the full effect of the wind storms yesterday. In that State twenty-one persons are known to have met death in different communities.

Flood Menace Grows in Path of Tornado

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 18.—While the fury of the tornado which has been ravaging the Middle Western States apparently has passed, the flood danger is ever increasing.

Beardstown, Ill., today announced water was pouring through a break in the levee of the Illinois River and flooding the country for miles in every direction. Every building in Beardstown is flooded and danger of famine became very serious today because of blocking of railroads and highways to traffic.

At East Peoria, Ill., fear is felt that the dike there will break, flooding many homes and stopping operation of industries employing thousands. Three hundred men are fighting the tide of a river flood that is still rising.

Appeals for aid have been sent out from the village of Liverpool, Ill., which is menaced by rising waters; residents of Naples, Ill., have been forced to flee from tents in which they have taken refuge from an earlier flood and are camped on a hillside.

Scores have been forced from their homes at Carrollton and the river there is still rising.

THORE ASKS COX'S AID FOR OLD-AGE PENSIONS

Wendell Phillips Thore today appealed to Governor Cox to send a special message to the State Senate demanding the passage of the old-age pension bill. "The purpose of the bill," Thore said in a letter to Governor Cox, "is to provide humane and equitable treatment for our deserving aged citizens who reach the later years of life without sufficient means to provide for themselves properly."

LAWMAKERS INDORSE ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

The United States Senate is urged to pass the Dyer anti-lynching bill in a resolution reported favorably in the House today by the legislative committee on constitutional law. The resolution was urged by the Equal Rights League and by a delegation of Boston negroes.

WOMEN SCORES MORAL CONDITIONS IN BOYS' SCHOOL

Charges against flagrant immorality, bad food, brutality and other vicious conditions alleged to exist in the Hampden County Training School were made today by Attorney A. P. Connor of Springfield, in an address to the Supreme Court demandin the release of Michael King, a fifteen year-old inmate.

The boy was committed for truancy, Connor charged, without the advice or consent of his parents who were administering to his little sister on her deathbed. The girl died the next day, Connor said, and the boy was not permitted to attend the funeral.

The boy was placed in the Training School where, Connor charged, "he is in the environment of vice, where several forms of degeneracy are practiced, with the knowledge of officials there and without proper attention to the curbing of the same."

"He has been compelled to eat unwholesome food containing insects," Connor charged.

Connor declared that neither Superintendent Charles E. Butler nor his son-in-law is equipped to provide the educational training to which the State's wards are entitled.

"The religious liberty of Michael King has been maliciously obstructed," Connor charged. During the year he has been there no fun been discriminated against for his religion.

"He has been frequently the victim of divers punishments peculiar to the institution."

FOR A CONSTIPATED CHILD

A small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will bring quick relief.

MOTHER, when one of the children is constipated are you going to give the first laxative within reach? It is dangerous to do so. Some have been known to rupture the intestines of little children. Don't be beguiled by the outside sugary appearance. Look into the formula. Calomel is seldom necessary; salts, minerals, coal tar, never!

Unlike these, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is admirable for children, as it is for grown people, too. Mothers have been giving it to children for 30 years. They know it does not gripe, and is free from narcotics. The formula is on every package, and you can see it is vegetable, just a combination of Egyptian Senna and other laxative herbs with pepsin. Use it yourself and you will find it is not necessary to take it every day, nor to increase the dose, and that it is pleasant to the taste. Bottles can be had at all drug stores, and the cost is only about a cent a dose. Have no hesitancy giving it to a baby in arms. It is absolutely safe.

Half-Ounce Bottle Free

Your escape constipation, as even if you do not secure a laxative at this moment, let me send you a Half-ounce Trial Bottle of my Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it when needed. Send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Write me today.

MEDBURY

Says Hot Dogs Make as Good Pets as Any Other Kind, as Long as You Don't Get too Hungry

The hot dog kennels at Coney Island are busy preparing their entries for the frankfurter show this Summer.

All Winter the society people have been showing their canines between Newport and San Francisco, and it will soon be time for the working class to be showing their dogs between two pieces of bread.

At Washington a person must have a pedigree with every dog they buy, but at Coney Island they demand mustard.

Irving Ackerman refused a thousand dollars for his Irish terrier at Pasadena, but at Atlantic City you can buy all the wire-haired frankfurters you want for a dime.

At the dog show they sleep on cushions, but at the lunch counters they rest on sauerkraut.

Hot dogs make as good pets as any other kind if you don't get too hungry.

One pedlar sells dogs which are so tough that he must have had them since they were pups.

Some of these dogs are beautifully marked, especially when they're sprinkled with salt and pepper.

Instead of toting them on a leash, you lead them around on a fork.

They don't require any kennel. The only doghouse you need is a roll cut in half.

The dog will be there quietly un[illegible] your appetite disturbs him.

He's no particular breed when you buy him, but he's a chow dog as soon as you get hungry.

Of course some of them are so little that they're like an Airedale. A one man dog.

No dog can serve two masters, as specially the size of the ones you get at Coney Island.

They make splendid watch dogs. They give you indigestion and keep you awake all night, and no burglar will break into your house while you're not sleeping.

One woman told a pedlar that her dog didn't agree with her, but the pedlar couldn't know she'd eaten a frankfurter.

When a society man buys a dog he expects to get a cup with it. When a working man buys one he wants a cup, too, only he wants his filled with coffee.

HOUSE PASSES "VOLSTEAD" MEASURE

The House voted today, 144 to 68, to pass the State "Volstead Bill," which Senator Silas D. Reed of Taunton has promised would mean Massachusetts is the driest spot in the world.

Two hours of lively debate preceded the decision of the House.

Representative Timothy J. Driscoll of Boston, leading the opposition, said the bill violates all the rights of personal liberty and gives unwarranted control over private affairs to the Anti-Saloon League. "We now control 25 per cent. of the enforcement officers."

Representative Lloyd Makepeace of Malden, expressing the views of the advocates, said prohibition is here, and, if respect is to be had for government, the law must be enforced.

The bill, an intricate measure of twenty-seven sections, is said by its drafters to bring State laws into harmony with the national Volstead act. Every policeman, sheriff and constable is made an enforcement officer. Provision is made for the trial of liquor cases in the state courts.

RARE SPORT AT ARENA WHEN AMATEURS MEET IN BOUTS

PURE TITLE FIGHTS WILL PACK ARENA

Strenuous and incessant fighting marked the fifty-six ariat bouts held at the Arena last night for the national amateur boxing championships, and a crowd of nearly 7,000 persons wended their weary way homeward in the early hours of the morning.

It was announced that twenty-four contests will be on the card for this evening's entertainment, when the semi-finals and finals in both the light heavy and heavyweight classes will be held tonight.

Few of the fair sex were on hand to cheer the fighters on, but they were lost in the crowd of men.

Vincent Sullivan of South Boston, New England champion for 1922, met a tartar in Edward Arne of Indianapolis.

Arne was by far the best boxer to appear in the ring up to that time and Sullivan had great difficulty in landing a blow.

Louis J. Zegarra of the Boston Y. M. C. A. sent Alphonsus Bogan, a colored boy from St. John, N. B., to the canvas in the first round and before the latter arose a towel came flying into the ring from his corner.

National Champion Jenkinson Beaten by Clevelander.

In the first bout in the 147-pound class, when Charles Jenkinson of the Riverside A. C., of Toronto, Canada, the present national champion, met John Rini of the Cleveland A. C., Rini scored a knockout in the first round, but Jenkinson came up in a moment. Rini had the better of the second round as well, and although Jenkinson came back and took the third round, he lost the bout.

One of the most unpopular decisions came when the judges gave the verdict to the winner in a bout between Eddie Wetmore of the Ausonia Young M. C., of Pittsburgh, and Leo F. Bowler of Pittsburgh. Waters picked up a lead in the first two rounds but Bowler came back strong in the last round.

THE SUMMARY.

112 POUND CLASS TRIAL BOUTS.

First bout—Joe Grimaldi Club, San Francisco, beat Joseph Ferrara, Providence, by three rounds; Grimaldi is the 1922 New England champion in this class.

Dry Sand of St. Louis beat Gene Reichen of Somerville in three rounds.

Al Pettingill, M. C. C., Boston, beat Matt Corser, General Electric Club of Lynn, in three rounds.

Jack McManus of the Willow A. C. of Pittsburgh beat Joseph Rinaldi, Rinaldi A. C., of Birmingham, Ala., in three rounds.

Leroy Powell of the Christopher Club of New York, colored, beat Alex Greenberg, South Philadelphia Athletic Association, in less than one round.

Harry Marcus of the Cleveland A. C. of Cleveland, O., beat Nat Plaus of New York in three rounds.

JOHN SULLIVAN CLASS TRIAL BOUTS.

Wilbur Colson, colored, of the St. Christopher Club of New York, beat Tony Dominicci of the Olympia Club of San Francisco in three rounds.

A. C. Gullett of the Y. M. C. A. of New Orleans beat Gerald Cassidy of the Penn Athletic Club of Philadelphia in three rounds.

Ralph Hall of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago beat Leo Trost of the Culver Military Academy in three rounds.

Ray Gibson of Akron, O., beat Paul Girard of Akron, O., in three rounds.

The referee disagreed in the bout between John E. Brassil awarded the decision.

HEAVYWEIGHT TRIAL BOUTS.

Billy Linder of the Willow A. C. of Pittsburgh defeated Un Anderson of North Easton, Mass., in three rounds.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

As it was raining I didn't care to walk as far as the restaurant where I usually have lunch. I ducked into a nearby place. Its prices were about the same and the food was quite as good. But I don't want to go back.

• • •

When I entered that restaurant I was a good "prospect"; I might have become a regular customer.

Maybe the incident will carry a suggestion for business concerns as well as for employes.

I was in a hurry. I wanted more butter and I looked around for my waiter. He was not in sight—he had gone to the kitchen to fill another order. I looked pointedly at another waiter who was standing idle and beckoned to him what I wanted. He merely neither muscle nor foot. He simply stared at me with complete indifference. And so I had to wait until my own waiter reappeared and finished setting a course before three diners.

• • •

In the restaurant I customarily visit each waiter has been trained to show the utmost courtesy to all guests, no matter which table they may be at. In it I would have been immediately and politely served by any waiter within sight not at the moment busy.

• • •

So, hereafter, even though it may be raining, I shall go to my regular place—or, at least, I shall most certainly avoid the other place.

• • •

I have tried to analyze why such a trivial incident produced such an effect on my mind. I don't believe the reason is solely that I was offended by the idle waiter's silent snub. I find that I came away from the place with a feeling that it was poorly managed, that employes haven't been well trained, that they are concerned only about showing attention to those from whom they can expect tips. And this, in turn, makes me feel that perhaps the selection of the friend and its preparation have been entrusted to employes who are equally indifferent to the comfort of customers.

On the other hand, the courtesy and efficiency always exhibited by employes at my own restaurant have inspired me with respect for and confidence in the management and of those in their employ. I have a sense of security, a sense of faith that everything connected with the running of this house is looked after carefully, properly, painstakingly, with an earnest desire to please patrons. I cater to them properly in every respect.

Haven't you the same feeling about other organizations? Do you not find yourself preferring to deal with one rather than another? Haven't you the same feeling about railroads? For example, I always feel a sense of safety when I board a Pennsylvania train, whereas I cannot count upon receiving as efficient handling when patronizing some other line, particularly in certain parts of the South.

There is a certain man's clothing firm that I always enter with a comfortable feeling that I'll receive honest value for whatever money I spend. I rather think that here also my "confidence has been won in part by the courtesy and efficiency of the employes. There is always at the door a dignified yet cordial employe who politely asks if he can be of service in directing you to the particular department or particular salesman you are looking for. The whole atmosphere inspires faith in the ability and sincerity of the management.

I know important business men who would hold meetings with men who are not punctual. "If a man doesn't keep an appointment with me at the time promised, I cannot trust him," such men have told me. "I feel that they have not themselves well organized, that they don't function efficiently, that they are careless. I try to steer clear of them. I wouldn't have them in my own business at any salary."

• • •

This may seem a long diatribe about a slight delay in being served with a pat of butter. Yet, after all, no business concern can be indifferent about losing customers, nor can any employe afford to be a stickler about confining his duties strictly to "doing only what I am paid for."

Stocks Weaken in New York; Heavy at the Close; Call Money Loans at 3½%

REACTION IS DUE TO PROFIT-TAKING

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks closed weak in New York and not far from the bottom. Many issues sold at their lowest level of the day in the last hour. A few and a feeble rally just before the finish. Bulls scented with the lid in general. Transactions footed up to less than on Monday, but the total was not far from 1,000,000 shares.

Republican caucus action in favor of the enactment of a bonus bill at the session of Congress increased the selling pressure which had developed early in the day.

At the close losses exceeded seven points. Among the largest were Electric Storage Battery, 7 at 106; Standard Oil of N. J., 4¾ at 177½; Standard Oil of California, 4 at 163; American Woolen 3½ at 91; Mexican Petroleum 3¾ at 129 ¾; Crucible 2¾ at 52¾; Baldwin 2¾ at 115¾; American Locomotive 2¾ at 113, and Studebaker 2¾ at 117.

Rally to decline 1 point or more were Northern Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Great Northern preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio. U. S. Steel was down to 91 at 97¾.

As soon as overnight buying orders were executed the market began to react, traders preferring to realize profits to extending commitments. Reports that Germany ars' Russia had established treaty relations were somewhat disturbing to Wall Street. The low money rate was the chief bull advantage. The market opened rather weak in the first hour, but rallied in the second under the leadership of rails. They showed the most strength during the forenoon. Morning gains did not much exceed two points. Several losses receded three or more. The tone was heavy at noon and there was not much change in the next hour. By afternoon there was another reaction, with oils foremost in the decline.

Coca Cola had advanced to a new record high, with room to attain top prices for this or several years were Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, St. Paul and Rock Island. While trading was of big volume there was no excitement on the exchange.

Call money opened at 3½ per cent. and was in abundance. Foreign exchange rates were lower, reflecting the latest developments at Genoa and elsewhere in Europe.

Stock Market More Orderly

By W. S. COUSINS

Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan Newspapers

New York, April 18.—In comparison with yesterday's wild scramble the stock market presented a more orderly basis in early trading today. During the first hour speculative leaders, like Baldwin, Studebaker, Mexican Pete and Sinclair, showed pronounced declines as the result of heavy realizing sales.

The manner in which the market absorbed these offerings and then pressed forward just before noon to the highest level of the morning was favorable comment in the speculative district. There was additional evidence of the presence of ample funds for the stock market, the first rate on call money being advanced 2½ per cent. in contrast to the opening rate of 4 per cent. yesterday. The motors, steels and oil stocks suffered most from the modest wave of liquidation that swept over the market in the first hour.

Railroad stocks, which showed monetary hesitancy at the opening, gathered momentum as the session advanced and made the best showing of the year in dollar gains. The improved division the features were the rise of Union Pacific and Atchison, Rock Island and St. Paul common were leaders of low-priced rails. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Baltimore & Ohio were in good demand.

Detroit United Railway 4½s strengthened on decision of the voters of that city to take over the property.

Irregular Start for the N. Y. Curb

New York, April 18.—The New York Curb Market had an irregular but active start and at the end of the first hour was marked by a slight breadth. Early changes averaged small.

GERMANY REAL STORM CENTRE OF EUROPE

By FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

(Copyright, 1922, Special Cable to Boston American).

Genoa, April 18.—Germany, publicly, has cut no figure at the conference as yet. Chancellor Wirth's speech was ineffective; public interest was in the Russian terms. But among delegates with economic insight the immediate outlook on German affairs is recognized as the most pressing feature of Europe's economic problem.

The question of reparations—from any angle the German situation is viewed—is the most outstanding. Unless the reparations demands are relieved, Germany faces inevitable financial collapse. This will carry in its train political and social consequences likely to be contagious.

WILL FALL ON FRANCE.

In the event of the financial collapse of Germany, the French financial position will fall with sickening weight in the next generation. One of the most important prime ministers here told me his mind is chiefly concerned with the French financial situation—her unbalanced budget, her floating obligations, now amounting to more than eighty billion francs in short term treasury notes.

He said the market for these is not satisfied to the full extent of expectations, that expenditures will be recoverable from indemnities. French statesmen here maintain the financial confidence of their constituents.

That is why they present a steely front against the insistence of reparations. That is what may drive France to extreme military measures, hoping to collect by force. So the German situation, because of its contagious possibilities, is immeasurably more important that the Russian problem.

DISCUSSED IN PRIVATE.

Reparations under the Cannes agreement was not to be discussed here. Privately everybody is discussing them. France is hard as flint in resisting a change in the agreement, but all discussion of the German economic situation is tills to reparations, which is inevitably caused.

It is obvious the conference is not of a character fitted for such discussion. Outside of the French delegation, it is the unanimous opinion that reparations must somewhere be eventually and thoroughly discussed to prevent the greatest danger threatening Europe.

The French have a very sound basis for their objection to such a discussion here. But unless they eventually face the music the consequences are likely to ensue.

ESSENTIAL TO ENGLAND.

It is essential to the life of England that there be prosperous rehabilitation of Europe. This cannot come while Germany is left as a contagious sore centre of Europe.

Germany will collapse under an attempt to meet the present reparations arrangements. France is in no position to withstand the conviction that her reparations expenditures are not recoverable.

Here, then, is where the paths of England and France diverge. If France persists in the course of being governed solely by what she conceives to be her immediate self-interest, she will isolate herself politically. If she goes into the Ruhr she is likely to go alone.

The storm centre of the European situation is on the Rhone, not on the Volga.

This is the second of a series of articles by Frank A. Vanderlip on the Genoa conference.

"Four Horsemen" at State and "Orphans" at the Park Theatre

By FRIEDA DAVIS

"FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE"
By
Vicente Ibanez
Adapted by June Mathis.
Directed by Rex Ingram

CAST

Julio	Rudolph Valentino
Marguerite	Alice Terry
Madariaga	Pomeroy Cannon
Desnoyers	Joseph Swickard
Karl von Hartrott	Alan Hale
Dona Luisa	Bridgetta Clark
Argensola	Brodwitch Turner
Tchernoff	Nigel de Brulier
Laurier	John Sainpolis

In spite of all assertions that "war stuff" is not wanted by the American public today, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" had a rousing reception at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. There can be no question that the public knew all about the production for they applauded with the audiotorium's main door. The capacity of the audience was there to see it again.

It is the usual tale—it gave an audience hives the villain and appeared out on a good work. Yesterday's audience hooted the Germans wrote-heartedly and applauded Valentino when he reached the decision to enlist with the French. They nearly roared when the pictures showing the American troops were shown. Putting this production on as popular prices has proved entirely successful.

THRILLING SCENES.

Seeing a production repeatedly, one gets over the "thrill" of expecting events, particularly when they deal with warfare. "The Four Horsemen," however, is so examined with action and with meaning that one cannot fail to be carried away to a certain extent. The scenes have been splendidly conceived by Ingram the director, while the photography, particularly the "mob stuff," in the hands of the same man is uncommonly good.

The French soldiers straggling along the road—disheartening, wounded, discouraged, and tired, contrasted capitally with the stolidly plodding Germans as they advanced. It was a bit of pure aristotry. The fighting, too in Villeblanche, in the early days of the fought to the last under the war cry "They shall not pass!" has been done with telling.

VALENTINO AT HIS BEST.

As for the playing, Rudolph Valentino has outdone himself as Julio Desnoyers. In this Metro picture he has given an unusual characterization and outdone his role with finish. Nigel de Brulier continues to exist but for his work as the student Tchernoff. The best of honors go to Ibanez, the author and to Rex Ingram, the director.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM."
From "The Two Orphans."
Directed by David Wark Griffith

Henriette	Lillian Gish
Louise	Dorothy Gish
Danton	Monte Blue
De Vaudrey	Joseph Schildkraut
Frochard	Lucille La Verne
Pierre	Frank Puglia
Elder Frochard	Sheldon Lewis
Picard	Creighton Hale

Another super-production to be shown at Keith's Boston is the newest David Wark Griffith film, "Orphans of the Storm," which held forth at the Park in private showing yesterday afternoon. It is a good picture and will support them. "The Orphans" played to an appreciative audience yesterday as well at the Park Theatre.

POWERFUL FILM.

There is a swing to spectacles, a magnificence of direction—particularly in one from the Griffith megaphone—that never fails to score. Since the French Revolution was so full of the mob feeling in this picture there is small wonder that on the screen it would be equally powerful. In showing the people incensed to the point of evil war and then, with the power in their hands, dancing through out the city endlessly in the famous Carmagnole dance Griffith has given up a spectacle as to foreign concern as he is able to turn out. The "mob stuff" and "man" scenes, in which the people rich and poor, aristocrat and commoner, work side by side have been left out since the first showing.

CARRY OFF HONORS.

Lillian Gish and Monte Blue, closely followed by Dorothy Gish and Joseph Schildkraut, quite carry off the honors of acting. They do excellent work, particularly the first named. I still feel that, good though Frank Puglia was as Pierre Frochard, Charles Mack, another Griffith player, would have been a better choice.

Other Theatres

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Wonder and amazement was stamped upon the faces of everyone who witnessed at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, yesterday, the remarkable performance given by Frank Puglia, the girl with 1,000 eyes. The remarkable manner in which Miss Laidlar was able to read thoughts, and will, and wishes of the audience was unbelievable. Nothing more mysterious could be found beyond belief. Another feature was the pantomime "The Sheik's Wife," a tense love drama of the Orient breathing the atmosphere of desert sands.

GAIETY THEATRE—A spectacular reproduction of the luxurious gambling dalls at Monte Carlo and the race track scene that surpasses any scene of the kind presented in Boston for many months featured Billy Watson's "Big Show," the burlesque attraction at the Gayety Theatre yesterday. Billy Watson himself led the strong company of burlesque favorites.

GORDON'S OLD SOUTH—There is a laugh in every foot of "Too Much Business," the seven-reel comedy shown at Gordon's Old South Theatre yesterday. It is based on the Saturday Evening Post story by Earl Derr Biggers.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS—"The Jest," as played by Gracie Emmett, the famous Irish comedienne, in conjunction with the Somerville Players at the popular Davis Square playhouse of this now famous stock company, scored a distinct triumph yesterday afternoon and evening.

ST. JAMES STOCK IN "A STITCH IN TIME"

The St. James Stock company gave the comedy, "A Stitch in Time," a very favorable presentation in the first showing which that play has yet had in Boston. The St. James Theatre was well filled with an enthusiastic group of theatregoers.

The play is one of the "wholesome, human" type, centering about the vicissitudes and adventures of a young man who desires to become an artist, despite the wishes of his family. The affair is complicated by the family's determination that he shall marry a society belle.

Into the action at this point comes a "slavey" of the "Peg-O-My-Heart" type, who effectually foils the designing belle and brings about the happy conclusion.

'LAST WALTZ' AT WILBUR A DELIGHT

A perfect cocktail of song, story, dance and funny names.

Yes, the names above all things make "The Last Waltz," composed by Oscar Straus, together with its alluring music, dazzling costumes and side-splittingly funny humor one of the most delightful operettas ever produced. It is at the Wilbur Theatre.

Eleanor Painter, Walter Woolf, Eddie Nelson, Florence Morrison and the Countess Alexandrowna Corpiloff, bid fair to make it a big success.

Boston may have been just a little late in getting this light, humorous operatic entertainment, but Bostonians are never late in appreciating the better kind of entertainment. And last night's audience had a wonderful time, at least, one would be led to assume that, if the applause and desire for repetition may stand the test.

It all happened—the story, of course—because an American naval officer, Walter Woolf, saved the Countess' eldest daughter, Eleanor Painter, from the unwelcome advances of the Duke, whom she honors. Let it suffice to say that love at first sight resulted. And because in defending honor the American can talk the Grand Duke "to go to hell"—he is imprisoned and court-martialed to be shot at sunrise.

But love will save regardless. All is set for the officer's escape, but again the honor of an American is at stake, and he won't sneak away, leaving the lovers to suffer the consequences. And after his trial, during which he is won to the "land of the free," he comes back. He is a man! Yet he loves her under the law is to wed the general!

You know the rest! She is young and beautiful! The American officer is young, handsome, buoyant—all that a man should be. Hence the sacrifice is made for youth and love, and the two are united.

"MIDNIGHT ROUNDERS" PLEASES AT MAJESTIC

The "Midnight Rounders," with an all-star cast, proved one of the best burlesque entertainments presented at the Majestic Theatre since its re-opening. The show is ably supported by a chorus of typical Winter Garden and Broadway beauties. Collins and Hart and Billy Bond's "Business Man," did exceptionally well. Alice Eldner and her accompanists rendered a delightful selection entitled "Romantic Blues." White Eldner and Carroll are clever.

A fantastic conception of the "Wedding of the Sun and the Moon" was also presented by a bevy of beautiful girls appearing in the chorus.

'GOLD DIGGERS' PROVE A JOY AT TREMONT

By FRED J. McISAAC.

"The Gold Diggers," a farcical comedy by Avery Hopwood, presented by David Belasco, and a sensational hit in New York for two seasons past, opened an engagement at the Tremont last night.

The play was presented with what is practically the original cast, save that Ina Claire has been replaced by Gertrude Vanderbilt. Bruce McRae, H. Reeve Smith, Isabyna Hosford, Beverly Wood and the others who were so popular in New York are all there. Miss Claire is missed but Miss Vanderbilt plays the role with a lot of skill and charm.

"The Gold Diggers" deals with a species of New York life which you are very familiar with if you read "Snappy Stories," but which is most astonishing if you abstain from the magazines with the bunnies in colors on the covers.

It differs from such plays as "The Mirage," "Back Pay," and others of that ilk in that the Gold Diggers are not women who live in silks and say they live in silks all right, but they sidestep the rest of the alliteration.

There is a type of show girl in New York and elsewhere who joins the Johns, as they say. These young ladies accept expensive presents from gilded youths. They are expert in getting the good things of life without paying for them. They obtain very thin ice, but they do not fall in, that is, they usually don't.

Instead of it being the woman who pays and pays and pays, in "The Gold Diggers" the women don't even pay for postage.

There are some who might maintain that the girls who deceive men, mislead them and rook them are not any better than the girls who don't attempt to avoid payment for the luxuries they secure. But whether you admire these ladies or not you will certainly split your sides at their antics.

There is the frisky, but nobleheartedly Jerry Lasky, and the redoubtable Blaine and classy Phantom Johnna Howland, and half a dozen other amusing types. And the men about town, the merry youth who joins the chorus, and lots of types of that sort. And the way they sinsh liquor around.

I believe "The Gold Diggers" was written before prohibition, though they do say that doesn't make any difference in New York. The piece is beautifully mounted and it's here for a run.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—April 18, 1922

Unfair to New England

Railroad Freight Differentials Cause Loss of Half a Million Yearly Through Hudson Coal Company

The Hudson Coal Company takes from New England nearly half a million dollars in the price which it charges us each year for coal above the price it charges the rest of the country. This is due to a railroad freight differential.

New England seems to be getting the worst of it all around on the railroad freight differentials. It is a strange thing. New England people own most of the railroads in this part of the world, but the people of New York and elsewhere run them. When a railroad is wrecked like the New Haven and the Boston & Maine, it is wrecked to the advantage of the speculators in New York, who have very little interest in the road except its control, and the people of New England pay the bills, both in higher freight rates, passenger fares, bad railroad service and in the destruction of railroad values in the hands of stockholders and bondholders, New England men and women mostly. The loss which the investors of New England have suffered through the chicanery of New York management of our railroads has been stupendous.

Yet there is a conspiracy now afloat to nullify the decree of the court separating the New Haven and the Boston & Maine, which had been united in violation of the anti-trust law, and which were separated only after ten years of bitter struggle. We understand that the Pennsylvania Railroad now controls the New Haven and wants to resume the old Morgan conspiracy of reducing the whole of New England to a mere satrapy.

One of the manifestations of this conspiracy was the request which the New Haven made to the Federal Court to be allowed to name the trustees which control the Boston & Maine Railroad. This request was a gross breach of faith from every point of view. New England will not submit to any such scheme without a fight.

Rogers Did Well

Massachusetts Congressman Exposed Source of Information of Naval Appropriation Chairman

Good for Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts!

Gentlemen on the Naval Appropriation Committee have been attempting to emasculate our naval appropriations until even that which had been left by the Four-Party Treaty pact has been destroyed and we are left helpless on the sea.

Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts has been doing splendid work to protect our first line of defence. He showed that the naval appropriation, which was reported by the chairman of the Committee on Naval Appropriations, would not permit us to have even the navy to which we had agreed to limit ourselves under the Four-Party pact with Great Britain and Japan.

Congressman Rogers called attention of the House to the fact that Chairman Kelly was not a naval expert and that he must receive his figures from some source beyond his own knowledge. He said that there was not a line in the thousand pages of the committee's report which showed what the British and Japanese navies would be next year. Mr. Kelly replied that the figures concerning the British Navy came from the most authentic source. Whereupon the following colloquy occurred:

Mr. Rogers—Does the gentleman mean the British Embassy?

Mr. Kelly—I shall not quote any particular authority because that would not be proper.

Mr. Rogers—Will the gentleman answer me this question—whether he has been in direct personal contact with the British or Japanese embassies?

Mr. Kelly—I refuse to answer any such question.

Mr. Rogers—I prefer to have the program for the American Navy decided in the American Navy Department rather than in the embassies of Japan or Great Britain.

It is to the credit of the House of Representatives in our national Congress at Washington that they vigorously applauded this statement from Mr. Rogers. But it is a pity that any such colloquy had to take place. Can you imagine it taking place in the British House of Commons or in the Japanese Diet?

When shall we be able to feel sure that our public men are real Americans? What we want in America is a citizenship which is wholly American, which sub-consciously thinks of America above all and which does not know how to think anything else, which takes America for granted and never either boasts about her or apologizes for her.

Constabulary Increase

Supporters of the Professional Soldiery in This State Took Advantage of Crime Wave

We notice that those who are trying to build up a large body of professional soldiery in this State under the name of the State Constabulary took advantage of the agitation over the number of violent crimes which are being committed hereabouts to urge the increase of the State Constabulary.

This is of course just what the Boston American predicted when the State Constabulary was first proposed. Then it was sugar-coated with a limitation to fifty of these professional semi-soldiers. But this newspaper at the time said that it was only an entering wedge. It proved to be just that and nothing more, for each year the constabulary has been increased in numbers.

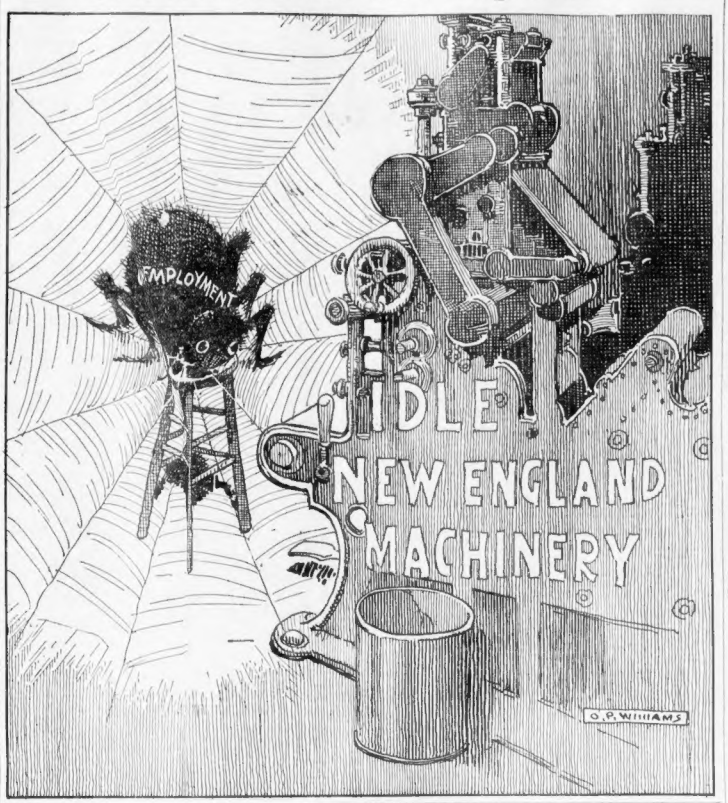
We see nothing in the present situation which warranted the increase in this body of professional fighters, who will be carefully picked to do the work that the Associated Industries and like organizations of big business may want to be done.

Allen and the Crime Wave

Attorney-General Allen puts a large part of the blame for the alleged crime wave upon the automobile and the moving picture industry, on the ground that both these industries tend to take away the children and the parents from the fireside. We have no doubt at all that there is less criminality in this country today, considering all the circumstances, than there was some years ago. There is a great deal more publicity of crime and we hear about it more.

Attorney-General Allen would have searched more deeply if he had given consideration to the bitter disappointments which follow the war—its injustice, inequalities and the hard times and its causes and resentments.

A Poor Substitute for New England's Labor



Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

IF today is your birthday, what you make of your life will be determined by which of your many talents you choose to cultivate to full fruition. This choice you will not find a simple problem. It is one that you may make early or late in life and one that you may change, once you have made it, for you are a restless, undecisive person.

Naturally you are rather richly endowed. You have an active and intelligent mind and are especially gifted with the faculties of reasoning and imagination.

Personally, however, your own private life is probably one of extreme untidiness and disorder. Because it strikes you as a duty, you are so busy arranging the lives of others that your own is sadly neglected. You should cultivate orderliness in your own life, as you will waste a good deal of it if you don't.

Emotionally your nature is responsive, but fickle. If you are disappointed in one person you can readily substitute another, or, failing that, even an inanimate object.

Today's outlook is uncertain and one on which it will be more discreet to look and wait rather than to act.

The coming year of your life will be one of petty annoyances, which you must guard against by listening to no gossip, as trouble will come out of narrowmindedness and small talk on the part of others.

A child born today will be restless and always stepping into things, but will achieve success through its originality.

Famous persons born today: John N. Mason—Attorney-General.

William A. Stone—Governor of Pennsylvania.

Richard Harding Davis—Author and war correspondent.

Charles M. Schwab—Financier.

BIDDING IN AUCTION BRIDGE

By S. S. Carvalho

ARTICLE VIII.

Four Card Major Suit Bids Risky.

SOME writers consider a suit of four cards headed by Ace, King, Queen, with or without side suit strength, a sound One Major Suit Bid, claiming that it fulfils the convention requirements, namely four tricks for attack and two tricks for defence or assistance.

While this interpretation is technically correct, it is really unsound, because there is too much chance of one of the adversaries having more Trumps than the Declarer, which is a tremendous advantage. Besides, if the Declarer is forced in Trumps he is entirely gone. Besides, even if Dummy has a good plain suit there are not enough Trumps in the Declarer's hand for proper re-entry, to say nothing of the adversaries' trumping possibilities.

If the Declarer has four cards headed by Ace, King, Queen with side suit strength, then the play in all probability would be better at No Trump.

Even while we consider a hand with five cards topped by Ace, King, but without side suit strength, a sound One Major Suit Bid, we admit that it is weak. However, the player should not hesitate to call it.

This table gives the minimum strength for one Major Suit declarations.

Ace, King and three small.

Ace, Queen, Jack and two small.

King, Queen, Jack and two small.

Ace and four small with one side quick trick.

King, Queen and three small with one side quick trick.

As explained before, the side suit quick trick is an Ace or King, Queen of the same suit, or two well-guarded Kings.

If without side suit strength the suit is six cards with two sure top tricks, you may bid two, and so on, with one additional for every additional Trump. With side suit strength support it is better to start with a bid of one.

The following is a table of suit lengths, headed by Ace, King, Ace Queen Jack, or King Queen Jack without side strength:

5 cards—Initial Major suit bid of one.

6 cards—Initial Major suit bid of two.

7 cards—Initial Major suit bid of three.

With eight or nine cards you have a freak hand and should pre-empt with a bid of 4 or 5 as judgment dictates.

It is advisable, with a hand, the only strength of which is Trumps, to go the limit on the first bid. Bidding one at the start and then raising to two or three in the succeeding rounds is not good play.

To be Continued Tomorrow.

DO YOU DISCUSS FAMILY SHORTCOMINGS BEFORE THE CHILDREN

Often parents during a quarrel speak before their children in a derogatory manner concerning each other's relatives.

When accusations against relatives of father or mother are first heard by the children they are surprised and feel that what is said is untrue, but when the statements are made more than once they grow to believe them.

In a sense this causes the children to lose respect for parents, as well as all respect they should have for those of whom they have heard unkind things.

One of the greatest shocks a child has in life is to be convinced through events that one or the other parent is not or has not been always all that the child as believed the parent to be.

Next to the parents, it is a shock to believe that relatives are wrong.

Parents should try to keep all thoughts of disagreement among the relatives from the minds of their children, and if there are disagreeable family traits they should not be referred to.

Conduct yourself in a manner to cause your children to believe always that you are and have been one of the best persons in the world.

This is not done by bragging, but by being "the real thing."

And if there are any good qualities your family possesses show up the good for emulation.

Letter to the Editor

Red Cross Warning

Editor Boston American:

We will appreciate it if you will call to the attention of the public the fact that an unauthorized effort is being made to solicit funds in the name of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The recent raising of $100,000 for the disabled service men has reached a total of $104,000 which will enable the Red Cross to extend its service. There may be some clubs, trades' chairmen or individuals who have not completed their effort of collecting pledges, but we wish to emphasize, in order to protect the public, that at the present time there is no legitimate solicitation of funds in our behalf, either on the street or in a house to house canvass.

"THE conjurer of world politics" is a title that might easily be slipped on the head of E. Phillips Oppenheim since his last book just off the press, "The Great Prince Shan." He tosses England, Germany, France, Russia, Japan, China and America about in this story with all the assured carelessness of a magician.

Immediate interest is obtained by the simple device of pitching the time of the action in 1934. It is almost a surety that most of us would like to know what is going to happen that far ahead, and if not to know at least to guess. The things that he suggests are not impossible and certainly not altogether pleasant.

Oppenheim writes cleverly. He draws characters that are fascinating, sometimes, as in the case of Prince Shan, fascinating in a sinister way. Not the least of his skill lies in creating situations apparently difficult of solution and more dramatic, not to say thrilling, because of that.

If you like Oppenheim you will like "The Great Prince Shan." There are, though, those of us who rather resent having a story of world politics crumple like a rose leaf under the spell of a woman's smile. However, it is a simple expedient for avoiding the responsibility of prophesy. A general vagueness with suggested possibilities is far more clever.

SEEN AND HEARD

By Lambert

GOVERNOR COX has received a pretentious offer of assistance against the crime wave from the Ku Klux Klan, but he wouldn't know where to find them if he needed their help in a hurry. Their letterhead was marked "Massachusetts Realm of the Ku Klux Klan," but no headquarters was indicated nearer than Georgia.

The last word of the county rings to Governor Cox's demand for State control of county penal institutions is, "We will not compromise." Like Grant, whose 100th anniversary approaches, they "propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all Summer."

Those who have seen George Fred Williams in action at the county-ring hearings are forced to admit that he looks and acts as well as in '96, when he was the Democratic candidate for Governor on a platform that contained some really democratic planks. His silver-toned voice that saw hard usage twenty-five years ago is still "clear as a bell." Mr. Williams may feel like Charles S. Mellen when he said: "My health is the joy of my friends and the envy of my enemies."

COLONEL WILLIAM A. GASTON, before leaving for Europe, gave private assurance to his friends that his Senate announcement was merely a rangefinder. His next shot is expected to tell where he stands on the soldiers' bonus, railroads, four-power pacts and things of that sort. He is said to feel that when he announces the platform, Sherman L. Whipple will have no cause to complain that "amiable platitudes" will never win the fight against Lodge.

SENATOR SILAS D. REED of Taunton probably kills as many bad bills in the House as any member who ever sat there. He raises such a fuss against a bill in the Senate that it is certain to run up against an opposition well fortified with arguments when it reaches the lower branch. The last death attributable to Reed was the bill to allow insurance corporations to spend much of the first year's premiums for office expenses. It involved a mere $100,000,000.

There are fifteen members of the Committee on Public Health and fourteen of them would be willing to admit that Senator Gardner Pearson did fourteen-fifteenths of the work on the anti-drug bill. The other fourteen are solidly behind Pearson in his attempt to suppress the dangers of the fast-increasing drug habit.

A State department that handles $40,000,000 a year is being run by telephone. State Treasurer James Jackson, although confined to his home by illness, has a telephone at the bedside and every day he discusses the larger policies of the department with his subordinates. Some State departments run along smoothly on the experience gained in 140 years of constant practice.

A fire-alarm box is being set up at the State House. The last fire there was at the conference of safety-first experts who had assembled from all parts of the country.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON EVENING STARS

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest

"Why is it that the planets Neptune, Uranus, Saturn, Mars never are 'morning' or 'evening' stars?—Mrs. F., Saginaw, Mich."

PROPERLY speaking, an "evening star" is a planet which rises, or is in view, before midnight, and a "morning star" is one that does not rise until after midnight, i. e., cannot be seen during the first, or evening, half of the night. But popularly, the respective terms are applied almost exclusively to Venus and Mercury, and especially to the former, because those two planets never recede to a very great distance from the sun, and, when visible, are either in the morning sky an hour or two before sunrise, or in the evening sky an hour or two after sunset, so that they seem to have a special association with the coming or departing sun, and with the twilight or the dawn.

The ancients were deeply impressed with the apparent connection between the risings and settings of the sun and the appearance of the morning and evening stars, particularly Venus, which is so much brighter and more easily seen than Mercury. As evening star Venus was called "Hesperus" and as morning star "Phosphorus." With the evening star was connected the legend of the islands of the "Hesperides," which, with their gardens of golden apples, were imagined to lie far away toward the west, deep under the sunset.

Venus is now an evening star, but still too close to the direction of the sun and too far away beyond the sun to attract attention. But she will brighten and withdraw from the sun's neighborhood month by month, and during the Summer and Autumn will be a superb object.

With regard to the other planets as "evening stars," both Jupiter and Saturn are now playing that role, rising in the east about 10 p. m.

On the 10th of June Mars will be exactly opposite to the sun in the sky and not much more than forty million miles from the earth. He will glow with a golden-red light about sixteen times as bright as a standard first magnitude star and brighter even than Jupiter, whose rays of pale gold will make a striking contrast with the fiery appearance of the light of Mars.

At the same time Saturn, a little brighter than a first magnitude star, will hide for the naked eye the ruddy splendor of his rings under a leadenish glimmer that lacks the sparkle of starlight. But every eye will note him, and for the possessor of a telescope he will be, perhaps, even more interesting than Mars.

On the same night Venus, although she will set before Mars reaches the meridian, will gleam in the sunset sky with a luminosity four times greater than that of a first magnitude star.

AMERICA, THE YOUNG NATION, WILL 'SEE IT THROUGH'

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

AMERICA needs the full faith of all her citizens. She must be builded out of the belief of her children.

More truly than any other great nation, the United States is the composite of the character of her citizenry. Older nations, physically made up more nearly of one kind, and, spiritually, of long-continued traditions, can more easily maintain their historic type.

Like a certain make of automobile, such nations may run for a time on the reputation of their past record.

America is relatively young and variously human. She is distinctly in a state of unstable equilibrium. Her policies, therefore, are still subject to change, because even the elemental proportions of her population continuously change.

retained the preponderent proportion of the revolutionary period, England's Irish problem would even now be far from solved. There would have been no moral support here for a free Ireland.

There is no gainsaying the statement that the Irish in America and the general sympathy of Americans with Irish aspirations did as much to advance Ireland on the road to freedom as did the fighting of her soldiers on the field and in the forum.

So in the recent mania of World War the fact that millions of Americans are German or Irish by birth or by descent, prevented our earlier participation on the side of the allied powers.

President Wilson could not safely have precipitated our nation into the crazy conflict until sufficient propaganda had consolidated public opinion and "educated" us into a temporary pro-British alliance.

Speaking of that mad war calls to mind the notable book by H. G. Wells, which fairly mirrored the British mind of that period as gradually it grew up to and into the fight. Its executive title, "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," fits the present mood and mental condition of America.

America is brooding over the situation. We are studying our population and our problems and their relation to the rest of the world and its problems.

WE SHALL NOT SHIRK OUR PROBLEMS, BUT WE DO NOT MEAN TO SOLVE THOSE OF OTHER PEOPLE.

Like Mr. Britling, we shall see it all through!

The working out of democracy in our industrial economics is our biggest and most pressing internal problem; but—we shall see it through. Every other problem, and every other, is democratically solved!

And so with our international affairs. It is sickening to be told, as an "unanswerable" answer to the proposed continuance of our traditional practice that America can no longer stand aloof from the other nations that the period of isolation is forever past, and so forth and so on, ad nauseam.

As a matter of fact, we have never been isolated. But there is no more need today than ever before for mediæsome relations or of entangling alliances or of practical pacts.

Consider one or two examples to illustrate the full meaning of this national phenomenon. If, imaginably, the Anglo-Saxon population of the United States had
